RETURN of the Population and Management of the Poor in each Parish of the Counties of Argyll, Inverness, Ross & Cromarty, Sutherland, and Caithness.

INTRODUCTORY EXPLANATIONS.

ON the 23d of June 1842, the Under Secretary of State addressed to Sir William Rae, then Lord Advocate, the following Letter:—

"My Lord, Whitehall, June 23, 1842.

"The Queen having been pleased to comply with the prayer of an humble Address presented to Her Majesty in pursuance of a Resolution of The House of Commons, dated 21st June 1842, for a 'Return of the number of the Population in each parish of the counties of Argyll, Inverness, Ross, Sutherland, and Caithness, at last census: Return, for each year, from 1836 to 1841, both inclusive, stating in each of the aforesaid parishes, 1st. Whether there is a legal or a voluntary assessment of heritors for the relief of the poor: 2d. The annual amount of such assessment: 3d. The annual amount of collections made at the kirk door: 4th. The annual amount of funds from any other sources which may have passed through the hands of the Kirk Session for the purposes of relief to the poor: 5th. The number of impotent persons on the books of the Kirk Session legally entitled to relief: 6th. The annual amount of relief which has been divided by the Kirk Session among such persons: 7th. The annual amount of relief distributed by the Kirk Session among needy persons other than the impotent;'

"I am directed, by Secretary Sir James Graham, to desire that your Lordship will cause the said Returns to be prepared and transmitted to me as soon as possible, in order that they may be laid before The House of Commons.

"I have the honour to be, &c.

(signed) "H. Manners Sutton."

On the 25th of June the Lord Advocate transmitted a copy of this Letter to Mr. Warren Hastings Sands, W. S., for the purpose of his procuring the Returns therein required.

On the 6th of the same month, a circular, which had previously been approved of by Crown Counsel, was addressed by Mr. Sands to the ministers of the different parishes comprehended in the five Counties. The circular stated the particulars of the information required as to each parish, and enclosing a printed Schedule, containing, in a tabular form, the various heads of inquiry, to be filled up and returned.

About one-half of the Schedules were returned filled up without delay. But it was not until several other circulars were subsequently despatched, together with much pressing and explanatory correspondence on the subject, that the whole Schedules have been got back properly filled up and completed, and answers from those parishes to which it was found that the inquiries did not apply.

It is but justice to the clergymen and session clerks of the various parishes here to state, that they have taken the trouble (in some cases very considerable) of filling up the Schedules, and corresponding in reference to them, without any remuneration.

In reference to the construction of the Return, it is deemed necessary to make the following explanations:—

The counties are arranged according to alphabetical order, and each county, embracing and distinguishing all the parishes within it, also arranged in alphabetical order, has been kept separate and distinct by itself. The total sums of assessments, collections and distributions, &c. for the poor in the parishes of each county have been summed up and carried to a general Abstract at the end of the Return.

Each folio of the Return, it will be seen, is subdivided into eleven different Columns, and to these it may be right to advert in their order:—

Column 1 contains the Numbers of the Parishes.

Column 2 contains the Names of the Parishes in each County, in alphabetical arrangement:

In the case of the Parliamentary churches, the Kirk Session of which have the management of the poor in the district assigned to them quoad sacra, they have been included in the Return under the original parish in which they are situated.

Column 3 contains the Number of the Population at Census 1841:

This has been furnished chiefly by the minister or session clerk of each parish. In some cases they differ from the official Population Returns; but the ministers have stated some instances in which these are incorrect, and it has been deemed best to adopt the number as furnished in the Schedule applicable to this Return.

Column 4 contains the Amount of the Legal Assessment of Heritors for the Relief of the Poor for each year, from 1836 to 1841, both inclusive:

Of the several parishes in the five counties, there is only one, namely Campbeltoun, in the county of Argyll, in which a legal assessment has been wholly in operation for the six years to which this Return applies; and there are only four other parishes in the Return (three in Argyll, and one in Inverness) in which a legal assessment has been partially resorted to during the same period. A legal assessment is not laid upon the heritors exclusively, but it is imposed, according to the proclamation of the Privy Council of Scotland, dated 11th August 1692, the one-half upon the heritors, according to the real or valued rent of their property, as may be fixed upon, and the other half upon the householders or inhabitants of the parish, according to their means and substance.

The power of imposing and levying legal assessments in burghs is vested in the magistrates, and in landward parishes in the heritors and Kirk Session.

Column 5 contains the Amount of the Voluntary Assessment of Heritors for the Relief of the Poor, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

There are only about thirty parishes in the whole Return in which a voluntary assessment has been resorted to. To constitute the voluntary assessment, the heritors, sometimes solely by themselves, and sometimes in conjunction with others of the inhabitants, and the Kirk Session of a parish, voluntarily agree to raise a certain sum for the support of the poor. This plan is generally generally resorted to where the sum required is not very considerable; and as the amount is usually divided with the other funds at the disposal of the Kirk Session, there is little or no additional expense attending the management of it. But when the whole heritors refuse to contribute equally, recourse is then had to a legal assessment, which, it is now apparent, is gradually becoming more common throughout Scotland.

Column 6 contains COLLECTIONS made at the KIRK DOOR for each year, from 1836 to 1841, both inclusive:

It will be seen that in the greater number of parishes the chief fund for the support of the poor is derived from the collections made at the kirk door. By the proclamation of the Privy Council, 29th August 1693, in reference to legal assessments, one-half only of the sums collected at the parish churches is ordained to be paid by the Kirk Session into the general fund for the support of the poor. Out of the other half of the collections, the Kirk Session grant temporary relief to the occasional poor, and pay a number of small annual salaries to the following officers:—Presbytery Clerk, about 1 l. 1*s.*; Synod Clerk, about 7*s.* 6*d.*; Session Clerk, who generally keeps the accounts, about 1*l.* 1*s.*; Precentor, about 2*l.* 2*s.*; Beadle, about 2*l.* 2*s.*, or generally averaging about 8*l.* In addition to the collections for the poor, there are in most of the parishes annual collections for the schemes for promoting Christianity carried on by the church, as well as for other religious and charitable purposes.

When a legal assessment is adopted in a parish, it usually decreases the amount of the collections for the poor at the kirk door.

Column 7 contains Amount of FUNDS from any other source which passed through the hands of the KIRK SESSION for RELIEF to the POOR, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

It will be seen from the Return that there are considerable sums included in this Column: they consist of the interest of money and rent of lands mortified, of donations, legacies, dues on proclamations of marriages, hearses and mortcloths used at funerals, and other small sums. In several parishes and towns benevolent individuals mortified certain sums of money from time to time, and from the increase of the subjects in which the money has sometimes been invested, the value of the mortifications has increased very materially. They frequently supersede any assessments for the poor in the parishes to which they belong, although in some cases it is expressly declared by their founders, and in other cases seems to be implied, that the poor should receive the amount arising annually from such sources, in addition to, and exclusive of, what they would be legally entitled to.

Column 8 contains the Number of IMPOTENT PERSONS on the BOOKS of the KIRK SESSION legally entitled to RELIEF, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

The term "Impotent" is not used to denominate either of the two classes into which the poor of Scotland is generally divided, and very different meanings were attached to this expression by the ministers and session clerks, and which led to a good deal of explanatory correspondence with them on the subject. The two great classes of paupers in Scotland are, first, the ordinary or permanent poor, that is, those who are continuously and regularly on the roll of paupers as legally entitled to and receiving constant parochial relief. This includes generally all poor persons who have acquired a settlement by three years' industrial residence in the parish, and "who, by reason of the infirmity of age or immaturity of years, by reason of physical imbecility or disease, are incapable of earning subsistence by labour. Thus are entitled to relief, 1. Poor persons of 70 years and upwards, or under that age, if so infirm as to be unable to gain a livelihood by their work. 2. Orphans and destitute children under 14 years of age, and those illegitimate as well as lawful." "3. All who, from permanent bodily disease and debility, are unable to work, are proper objects of parochial relief, as 'cruiked folk, seik folk, and weak folk.' It is not necessary to entitle such persons to relief that they should be totally incapable of performing any work whatever; it is sufficient that they be unable to work so as to gain a livelihood, and that they 'must of necessity be sustained by almes.'" (Dunlop's Parochial Law, third edition, pp. 357–8.) The second class consists of the occasional or temporary poor, that is, those who require occasional parochial support, or who may be verging to the permanently poor. This Column includes the first class only. Generally speaking, the poor in landward parishes included in this Column, at least such of them as are not entirely impotent, are not wholly dependent upon the sum which they receive from the parish. By their own exertions, including a not unfrequent practice of begging from door to door, and the kindness of their relatives, with some of whom they are commonly resident, as well as the charity of their richer neighbours, they are enabled to add to their scanty subsistence. It requires also to be kept in view, that the numbers included in this Column as "on the books of the Kirk Session," frequently show merely the heads of families; while the sum which thus appears as paid to one pauper, may, in the case of a married man with a family, in reality have to be participated in by his wife and children, whose names do not appear on the books at all.

Column 9 contains Amount of RELIEF divided by the KIRK SESSION among the IMPOTENT, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

The payments included in this Column have been explained in the remarks on the last Column.

Column 10 contains Amount of RELIEF distributed by the KIRK SESSION among NEEDY PERSONS other than the IMPOTENT, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

In this Column the sums paid to the occasional and temporary poor have been included.

In reference to the sums included in Columns 9 & 10, in so far as managed by the Kirk Session exclusively, it is right to notice, that the minister and elders, and especially a kirk treasurer chosen from among the latter, take a great deal of gratuitous trouble in managing the funds, and otherwise superintending the poor themselves.

Column 11 contains REMARKS and EXPLANATIONS in reference to many of the PARISHES:

When the Schedules were returned, they were frequently accompanied with remarks and explanations. So far as necessary, these have been introduced into this Column, and it is thought they will prove of use in illustrating the statistics of the Return itself.

Again, where it appeared from a Schedule that the sums entered in it as paid to the poor were manifestly insufficient for their support, a special inquiry was made of the minister as to how the poor were otherwise supported than as appeared from the Schedule. The answers which were received, so far as necessary, have also been introduced into this Column.

In several instances the ministers have expressed much diversity of opinion as to the operation of the Poor Law. Some of them are for a continuance of the present system, while others deem a change of it, or a new law, necessary. Extracts from several of the letters on each side have also been introduced into this Column.

*11.—REMARKS AND EXPLANATIONS.

(a)—1. Ardchattan:

Col. 7.—The sums here stated arose for the morteloth at funerals.

Cols. 8, 9 & 10.—No account of the number of poor into the classes of "impotent" and "needy" has been kept, and cannot be furnished. The whole sum divided amongst both classes is stated in col. 9.

The minister writes, that there are "no heritors resident; the poor are overlooked by the non-resident heritors, and hence the necessity of a voluntary assessment. Were the heritors resident, and to take that interest in the state of the poor which former heritors did, the voluntary assessment would not be required."

(b)—2. Muckairn (Parliamentary):

Col. 7.—The session clerk writes, that the "major part of the sum in this column is part of a small fund at the disposal of the Kirk Session. For some years a part of the principal was uplifted with the interest, as the heritors refused to give a shilling in aid of the poor so long as a penny of this remained. But there now remains of this fund only about 20*l.*, which will be exhausted in the beginning of 1843; and, without an assessment, the sums collected at the church-doors will be altogether inadequate to the wants of the poor, whose number is yearly increasing."

The session clerk further explains, that "when the poor become aged, they generally reside with their families, if they have any, or, failing that, with their nearest relatives. Along with the pittance they receive from our Session funds, they are aided by their more able neighbours; but, in cases of absolute necessity, extraordinary collections are made in church for them, and this money is dealt out to them, as the case may demand, by one or more members of our Kirk Session."

(c)—3. Duror (Parliamentary):

The late Mr. Stewart, of Keil, bequeathed 100*l.* for the poor. To make the allowance to each pauper up to 10*s.* annually, a portion of that bequest was divided along with the collections, &c. for this purpose.

The minister writes, that the poor obtain their additional support "by begging from door to door. Such of the paupers as have humane relatives get some pecuniary relief from them; but such as have not, and are unable to beg, are literally starving, or next thing to it. Slavery is condemned, and justly condemned; but I am persuaded that the slaves are far better fed than our paupers. I trust, therefore, that prompt measures will forthwith be adopted to ameliorate their wretched condition."

(d)—4. Ardnamurchan:

Cols. 4 & 5.—In addition to the sums here stated, quantities of meal, potatoes and clothing were given by the heritors, the amount of which cannot now be ascertained.

Col. 9, years 1839, 1840 & 1841.—The sums divided in these years cannot be ascertained by the minister.

4. Ardnamurchan—continued.

Col. 10.—The minister writes, in this column of the Schedule, that "the years 1836 and 1837 were attended with so much distress, that hundreds of people received aid during these years, that, in ordinary circumstances, were not entitled to it. The Session acted only as the distributors of the meal got from the charitable in the south country."

There is a district of this parish called Arisaig, situated in Inverness-shire: it contains a population of 1,100 (included here in Col. 3), and is under the charge of a missionary. There is no regular roll of the poor kept, and no collections made for them. Lord Cranstoun, one of the heritors, gave, in 1838, 50*l.*; in 1839, 30*l.*; and in 1841, 10 bolls of meal for the poor of Arisaig.

(e)—6. Strontian (Parliamentary):

Col. 6.—The collections here stated include a few small occasional fines from delinquents. Out of the collections are paid yearly 1*l.* each to the kirk officer and precentor, 1*l.* 1*s.* to the Presbytery clerk, and 1*l.* to aid the burying of paupers.

Col. 9.—Owing to the loss of some of the accounts for these years, the sums paid to the poor cannot be ascertained with precision. The sums here stated are presumed to be nearly accurate.

The minister writes, that, "till about three years ago, the poor here were in great misery generally; but during the last three years, Sir James Riddell (an heritor) has distributed some meal amongst them during the summer months." It is stated in the Schedule, that the distributions of meal were as follows: 1839, 11 bolls, 6½ stones; 1840, three bolls, 4½ stones; and 1841, 27 bolls, two stones. The minister continues his letter in these terms: "Their neighbours and relations contribute the rest of their scanty supplies, the small farmers and crofters being exceedingly charitable to their destitute brethren. At present many of them are in great need of clothing and shoes; but being only a quoad sacra minister, I have no power to remedy their wants, otherwise than by representing their case to the heritor's factor, and urging him to supply them. I may mention, that, owing to the absence of Sir James Riddell and his family (they being abroad), and the removal of some respectable families from the parish, the church collections were much reduced this last year, so that we had only 1*s.* 6*d.* to distribute to each person. The poverty of the Highlanders affects their moral and religious bearing, and prevents their regular attendance upon religious ordinances. It often affects me to see a poor man in church carefully wrapping his body in his plaid, for fear his ragged clothes should be seen by his fellow worshippers."

(f)—8. Craignish:

Col. 4, years 1840 & 1841.—The legal assessments here stated were for a pauper lunatic.

The minister writes, "The allowance which we make to the poor is certainly small, but it is the greatest which we have it in our power to make, without resorting to somewhat approaching a compulsory assessment, a measure (in my opinion) which would be fraught with most mischievous effects on the habits and industry of the working classes." The paupers generally are allowed, by the proprietor or tenants under whom they reside, free cottages, and a small portion of ground for raising potatoes. Many of them beg throughout the parish. Most of them have relatives in their neighbourhood, who assist them: and the farmers and others in comfortable circumstances, in their vicinity, are well known to exercise charity towards them, by giving them, if not money, what to them is of equal consequence, some of their farm produce. I must acknowledge, however, that, notwithstanding the benefits derived from the kindness of relatives, and the charity of neighbours, the poor are placed in circumstances of greater indigence than they ought. From the discussions which have lately taken place as to their condition throughout Scotland, I trust the heritors and wealthier classes will pay more regard in future than they have hitherto done to the representations of the parochial clergy, and to the arguments they so frequently employ in public to persuade them to the exercise of greater liberality towards them, so that voluntary contributions, in their support, may supersede the necessity of resorting to a measure which would completely destroy that spirit of independence, and those industrious habits, which until of late characterised the peasantry of Scotland."

(g)—9. Dunoon and Kilmun:

Cols. 6 & 7.—Out of the sums here stated are also paid the salaries to eleven officers connected with the four churches in the united parish.

(h)—10. Gigha and Cara:

Cols. 6 & 7.—Out of the sums here stated are also paid the salaries to the precentor, &c., amounting to 5*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* The minister writes, "With the exception of one or two, all our paupers live with their relations, and are mainly supported by them. Though there is no assessment here, the heritors give a good deal voluntarily in meal and potatoes, &c., and the inhabitants of the parish give meal, potatoes, milk, fish, &c. &c., and fuel to the most needful of the paupers; so that, though our poor do not enjoy many luxuries, to which they were never accustomed, they are never allowed to want the absolute necessaries of life."

(i)—11. Glenorchy and Inishail:

The books of the Kirk Session do not afford data to complete the Return for the year 1836.

Cols. 6 & 7.—The salaries to the precentor and other church officers, paid from the funds here stated, amount to 4*l.* 16*s.* The minister writes, that "it is impossible to furnish a note of the sums paid to the needy in col. 10, but that aid is extremely limited. The disproportion of funds placed at the disposal of the united Kirk Session in the parish of Inishail is very great as compared to that which obtains in Glenorchy. It does not amount to more than an eighth, whilst the number of its paupers is in the proportion of 12 to 28. The provision for the poor of Inishail is deplorable; it is confined to the collections and to dues arising from mortcloth and proclamations of banns.

"The Marquis of Breadalbane, who is sole heritor in the parish of Glenorchy, gives the poor annually a donation of 40*l.*, besides occasional assistance when required. He also gives pensions to the amount of from 40*l.* to 46*l.* annually to several poor persons, whom the parish would otherwise have to support as paupers. The Marchioness, besides, sends an annual supply of clothes for the poor, value from 7 l. to 8 l. The Glenorchy poor are in the receipt of 11 l. annually, being the interest of a bequest made long ago to the parish by a remote ancestor of Lord Breadalbane, and of a sum placed about 20 years ago in his Lordship's hands. All the paupers in Glenorchy are provided in free houses. This is also chiefly the case in Inishail."

(k)—13. INVERARY and GLENARAY:
The minister makes the following remarks:
"1. That we only aid, and do not support, many of our paupers. We rather encourage their own efforts and industry by occasional grants, perhaps to get a pair of shoes, or to lay up a little provision for the winter, than aliment them. If possible, we prevent destitution, rather than supply its necessities. We do not refuse to aid a poor creature while yet he himself has a penny left, because, while he feels that he has yet a little which he can call his own, his independence is not altogether destroyed, and he husbands it better than he would do ours. So there are some on our roll who get no more than 6 s. or 7 s. a year; and the whole sum given is distributed according to the supposed necessities of the individuals, so that the same sum is not given to every pauper, nor yet to the same pauper every year. Thus, for instance, if we had 52 paupers on the roll, and about 82 l. to distribute in any year, we should probably divide, in different sums, 25 l. among 32 persons, 20 l. among 12 persons, 9 l. among three persons, 28 l. among five persons. To the first two classes of these, viz. the 32 and the 12, we would give only small sums two or three times a year; to the two last classes, as destitute comparatively, we would give once a month or once a week.
"2. A considerable number of persons on the poor's roll have annual donations from the Duke of Argyll, sole heritor, from 2 l. to 5 l. and upwards. All of them have free houses, and liberty to carry home decaying timber for fuel. Likewise the Duke aids in supporting paupers and lunatics, and distributes coal, meal and provisions to the extent of about 100 l. annually.
"3. The ladies of the parish collect about 20 l. per annum, which is principally applied to the relief of the poor on the roll.
"4. If any peculiar case of distress occur, the inhabitants gladly collect means of relief."
Col. 7.—Includes 15 l. 13 s. 4 d. as interest of a sum bequeathed to the teacher of this parish for the education of the poor.

(l)—14. JURA and COLONSAY:
Col. 7.—The sums here stated are annual donations from Colin Campbell, Esq., of Jura, for behoof of the poor on his property in this parish.

(m)—15. KILFINICHEN and KILVICKEN:
Cols. 5 & 9.—The minister has been unable to furnish information for filling up these columns.

(n)—16. IONA (Parliamentary):
The minister informs, that "there was no distribution of the poor's fund in 1837 and 1839, in consequence of the smallness of the sum at the disposal of the Kirk Session, and also because the poor were liberally supplied from other sources these years."
Col. 8—Includes all the poor who received aid, whether impotent or needy, as no such distinction could be made.

(o)—17. KILCALMONNEL and KILBERRY:
The minister remarks, that the "Kirk treasurer absconded with the books about three months ago, on which account the returns for Kilcalmonnel are more conjectural than accurate."

(p)—18. KILBRANDON and KILCHATTAN:
On account of the great destitution in the Highlands in the year 1837, the heritors and other respectable inhabitants of the parish contributed very liberally for the relief of the poor and unemployed.

(q)—19. KILCHOMAN:
The poor of this parish are chiefly supported by relatives. A free house and fuel are given to such of them as are householders.

(r)—21. KILDALTON:
The minister writes, that "the poor of this parish are chiefly supported by public charity and by the bounty of Mr. Campbell, of Islay, who is always ready to give assistance where it is required. He gives several of them free houses, and supplies them frequently with meal and blankets. All the poor are able to travel and get liberal aid from the neighbours, but none of the native poor ever go beyond the bounds of the parish."

(s)—22. KILMENY (Parliamentary):
Col. 7, years 1840 & 1841—Includes donations of 5 l. and 3 l. for these two years from Mr. Campbell, of Islay. He also gave a quantity of meal during the distress in these six years, of which no exact account has been kept. The distribution extended to all the necessitous as well as the ordinary poor.
The amount distributed from the funds to those able to go about begging is generally used by them for clothing.

(t)—23. OA (Parliamentary):
Col. 7.—In addition to the sums here stated, the Kirk Session have received, in each of these years, from Mr. Campbell, of Islay, the sole heritor, three bolls of meal for distribution amongst the poor; and an insane pauper has also received annually four bolls of meal.

(u)—25. KILLEAN and KILLCHENZIE:
Col. 7.—The sums here stated are the interest of a mortification.

* 11.—REMARKS

(a)—27. KILMARTIN:

The minister writes, "that the principal heritor in this parish, Mr. Malcolm, of Poltalloch, gives employment to all the people on his estate, who are able and willing to work, such employment as they are fit for; and to the poor and infirm who cannot work, and who have no friends to support them, he gives a regular allowance of meal, &c. Generally, the poor in this parish (as throughout all the Highlands), are very much supported by their wealthier neighbours, to whom their circumstances are known, particularly if their character has been respectable."

(b)—28. KILNINVER and KILMELFORD:

The salaries paid to the session clerks, precentors, &c., amount to about 7*l.* annually.

(c)—29. KILMICHAEL GLASSARY:

Col. 9.—The sums here stated were chiefly furnished by the principal heritor, Mr. Malcolm, of Poltalloch.

(d)—33. KILMORE and KILBRIDE:

During the last four years the heritors supported two, and part of the time three, lunatics in an asylum, out of the assessment.

(e)—34. OBAN (quoad sacra):

The following remarks are made by the minister, and "Andrew Aldcorn, M. D., Elder:" "The legal assessment for Kilmore and Kilbride, including Oban, was begun in October 1841, and discontinued in January 1843, by the heritors, notwithstanding of the most pressing destitution amongst the impotent poor, a great many of them very aged, and several of them bedridden," &c. "The average sum actually distributed annually to each pauper by the Kirk Session during these six years, excepting 1841–2, was a fraction less than 8*s.* 6*d.*" "The ordinary poor are at all times, but particularly at present, suffering a kind of slow starvation; and were it not for the charitable aid of a comparatively small number of persons, who cannot bear the sight of fellow-creatures starving outright before their eyes, this dreadful process would often be more rapid. But these individuals are often forced to go far beyond what their means will warrant by this system of throwing the poor upon the poor for support."

(f)—35. KILNINIAN and KILMORE:

The minister writes, "This being an entirely rural parish, all our paupers have a hut to live in, and generally manage to raise a few potatoes for their maintenance. The heritors are also in the practice of giving occasional relief to the poor resident on their respective estates. The only other source of support which our poor have, is the voluntary charity of the parishioners at large, and which they obtain by begging from house to house. The condition of the poor is, in this quarter, sufficiently destitute, and I rejoice to learn that the attention of Government is now directed to this important subject, and I trust that some effectual measure for the relief of the poor throughout Scotland will be the first of their meritorious labours."

(h)—41. LISMORE and APPIN:

The minister writes, that "the sum which the poor receive yearly is small, but they are allowed to beg through the parish, as the only other source of support that they have."

(l)—42. MORVEN:

Col. 7, year 1838.—The minister received and distributed amongst the poor small sums received from individuals.

Col. 10.—In several of these years large supplies of meal, &c., were received from Edinburgh and Glasgow, and distributed amongst the poor.

The minister writes, "It is only of late years that the poor in this parish, and, I may add, in the Highlands generally, have become in any great degree dependent on a pecuniary provision. They lived under the care, and received the protection and aid, of the gentlemen farmers and tenantry. This class of persons has of late been, in a great measure, done away: the country has been converted into sheep-walks; these occupied in many cases by persons unconnected with the Highlands. The poor are thus necessitated to congregate in villages, and to look to the Session for support. Under the former system, the amount of our funds gave me little concern, as I knew well that, independent of them, the poor were better attended to than if the highest rate of assessment had been exacted. A different state of matters has now arisen, and we must enforce a pecuniary provision in some shape. Even still, however, much is done through the humanity of certain proprietors and tenants; so that a pauper receiving, it may be, only the nominal allowance of 2 s. 6 d. from our Session, possesses, it may be, accommodations to the value of 5 l. per annum gratuitously:

42. Morven—continued.

I could instance many such cases in this parish. This good old system, however, is fast passing away; and, as I have already said, we must enforce a pecuniary provision somehow, notwithstanding the benevolence of the remaining tenantry and resident proprietors, and the great frugality of the poor themselves."

(m)—46. TYREE and COLL:

The minister writes, that, "in addition to the trifle which the poor receive from the Kirk Session funds, they are chiefly supported by the private charity of the inhabitants."

(n)—47. TOROSAY:

The minister writes, that, "with the exception of two, all the rest of the paupers raise a few potatoes on spots of ground given to them in charity by their neighbours, and that when these are consumed, such as have abundance, help them out of their own stores of potatoes. Mrs. Campbell, of Possill, besides, distributes about the value of 30 l. annually in meal among them."

(o)—49. KINLOCHSPELVIE (Parliamentary):

In 1836, 222 barrels of potatoes, and 95 bolls of meal, were raised and distributed amongst the poor. In 1838, 20 pairs of blankets; in 1839, 50 bolls of meal; and in 1840, 20 bolls of meal. The impotent poor, in addition to the allowance from the Kirk Session, have dwelling-houses and potato ground free of rent, and any further deficiency is made up by the voluntary charity of the neighbours.

*11.—REMARKS AN

(a)—50. ABERNETHY:

The minister writes, "I have classified the paupers of this parish according to their circumstances, or means of subsistence:

"Class I.—Eighteen persons, of whom seven are males, and eleven females: from age and disease, all may be said to be irrecoverably impotent, and, except the small pittance received from the Kirk Session funds, and an allowance to four of one peck of meal to each per week from the Earl of Seafield, are entirely dependent on private charity, and the assistance afforded by relatives. Unless for the benevolence of neighbours and the attentions of relatives, some of this class would soon perish from want of the common necessaries of life.

"Class II.—Twenty persons, of whom three are males, and seventeen females, aged and infirm; able, however, to earn a little for their subsistence during the summer and harvest months by field and other labour. Eight of this class go about begging.

"Class III.—Eleven persons, of whom two are males, and nine females, not aged, but at present labouring under various diseases; in the meantime able to earn a little for their own subsistence by field and other labour.

"The above three classes include all the paupers belonging to this parish; and, from their scanty and precarious means of subsistence, it will be seen that their condition is very destitute."

(b)—51. ALVIE:

In the new statistical account of Scotland, the minister of this parish, under the head of its "Poor and Parochial Funds," states that "the poor in general depend, for the most part, on their own industry and the assistance of their nearest relations. They are very reluctant, till compelled by dire necessity, to make application for parochial aid. To receive assistance from the parish fund is considered degrading, and consequently is the last resource of the helpless and indigent."

(c)—52. ARDERSIER:

The minister writes, "There are few who can work a little, and by this means assist in supporting themselves; but the great majority are supported by the private charities of their neighbours; and a considerable number go weekly through the parish and neighbouring district begging."

Col. 9, year 1840.—In addition to the sum here stated, 40*l.* was collected by private subscription in the parish, and other 20*l.* was given by the Earl of Cawdor, the heritor of the greater part of the parish, and distributed by a private committee.

(d)—53. BARRAY:

Col. 6.—Owing to the general poverty of the people, no church collections are made.

Cols. 7, 9 & 10.—The following donations were received and distributed amongst the poor; viz. in 1836, 120 bolls of oatmeal, from the Destitution Fund of Paisley and Glasgow; in 1837, 400 bolls of meal, from the Glasgow Destitution Fund, and 80 quarters of oat-seed from Government; in 1839, 40 bolls of meal from the Glasgow Fund, and 100 barrels of potatoes; in 1841, 75 bolls of oatmeal from the Glasgow Fund.

Col. 7.—Two tacksmen, natives of Barray, left 400*l.* for the poor. It is lent out on heritable security, and the interest was for some time distributed; but the Kirk Session have been unable to get the interest for some years back, owing to disputes at law. The minister says that the people of this island are very destitute. He also states, in the new statistical account, that "the people are in general very kind to their poor, who live in small houses of their own, where they are supplied by those around them with the necessaries if life; and thus they are prevented from begging from door to door, or even leaving the parish for subsistence. They, however, show no reluctance in applying for relief, nor do they consider it as any ways degrading to do so."

(e)—54. BOLESKINE and ABERTARFF:

The former minister, in the new statistical account, states, that this "parish is not assessed for the maintenance of the poor; so that they depend on casual and voluntary charity, eked out by the produce of a plot of potato ground, given to every one of them."

(f)—55. BRACADALE:

The minister writes, that "during these years there was a great deal of destitution in this island, and the people of this parish suffered much. A great deal of meal was sent from the Glasgow Committee for distribution." "We have been in the habit of purchasing meal annually with our Sessional funds for the poor, and distributing it in such quantities to each pauper as his circumstances required. It is very rarely we gave money, deeming the other the more effectual way in this country of granting relief." "The poor have no other means of support than that given by us, except what they obtain from the voluntary liberality of the people able to give assistance."

(g)—58. CROY and DALCROSS:

The minister writes, that some heritors have not contributed any sum for 20 years. Others contribute liberally. A voluntary assessment was attempted, but failed.

(h)—59. DAVIOT and DUNLICHITY:

A few bolls of meal were received from the Glasgow C besides those on the roll in 1836.

(i)—61. DUIRINISH:

In the new statistical account, the minister states, that the Kirk Session did not get more than 10*s.*" "The beg from place to place, and are always liberally assisted b all to spare. But, at the same time, the condition of the who go about, though they receive food, are miserably degrading to apply for aid from the poor's funds; but th relief who have no title to it." There is a Parliamentary but as its Kirk Session "have no funds to distribute, collected at that Kirk-door, and applied in furnishing c

(k)—62. GLENELG:

In the new statistical account, Mr. Bith, formerly m each pauper is small, not exceeding 8*s.* annually; which absolutely requiring it. (l)—63. HARRIS:

Col. 6.—The minister says, "no collections made at t contribute."

Col. 8.—"No roll of paupers kept, as there are no funds number is from 150 to 200 individuals."

and plots of ground for raising potatoes. Some of them beg through the parish; others are supported by their relatives. From all these circumstances, you may conceive that their provision is precarious and scanty. (2), Some female paupers do sometimes support themselves to a certain extent by spinning, and nursing the children of relatives, whilst the latter are engaged in spinning and harvest-work, and the manufacture of kelp, in summer.

"I would not pronounce the state of the poor of this parish an exception to that of other parishes in the Highlands, only that the small tenants, or crofters, are very destitute, and that that tends to make the condition of the paupers more deplorable. There is no voluntary assessment for the poor, no particular provision set apart for their support; as stated already, they depend upon the charity and hospitality of the tenants."

(m)—66. Kilmalie:

Col. 5.—These voluntary assessments were chiefly for the support of two illegitimate children.

The minister writes, "that the poor of this parish, as I believe in most of the parishes in the Highlands, are supported by the good-will of the parishioners generally, out of such things as they have, as oft as the poor that are able call at their dwellings, they being allowed to beg from house to house within the bounds of the parish, while the infirm and bedfast have their supplies brought to them through the kindness of friends and neighbours. Thus, begging from house to house is the principal support of the poor in the parish, as all that they receive from any other source is but a mere pittance, which would not maintain them more than a month of the year, if so much."

(n)—67. Ballchulish (Parliamentary):

The minister writes, "that the poor in my parish are supported otherwise than by the pittance they receive from the funds at the disposal of the Session, by their relations, persons generally in poor circumstances themselves. No person who is a fit object to be put upon the poor's roll should receive less than 2*l.* 12*s.* yearly over and above the friendly support of relations and charitable neighbours; and when the funds of the Kirk Session are not sufficient to allow that amount, the heritors should make up the deficiency according to their rental, and be obligated by law to do so quarterly."

(o)—68. Kilmonivaig:

Col. 8.—The numbers here stated are Protestant paupers; there may be about an equal number of Roman Catholic paupers in the parish. The latter do not receive any portion of the funds collected in the parish church, as the Roman Catholic congregation do not contribute to these funds; but they receive a share of donations from heritors and other sources.

(p)—70. Kilmuir:

The minister informs, that the poor have no relief afforded to them but the collections made at the church-door, which, owing to its smallness, is only divided once in two years. The "poor have dwellings in the several hamlets of the place, and the land-occupiers in said hamlets never fail to afford the means of subsistence to the poor people who happen to have houses on their farms. They give them patches of ground, from which they are enabled to raise potatoes, and perhaps a little corn, and, by way of remuneration for the same, they assist the farmers with their spring and harvest-work. In this manner, therefore, the poor are supported. Although the occupiers of land, or small farmers, are generally poor, in regard to money matters, and in that case not able to contribute much to the church-door collections, yet, according to their ability, they are willing to afford the poor the means of support, as already described. In extreme cases of poverty, the sole proprietor, Lord Macdonald, has frequently afforded them private relief."

(q)—73. Kingussie:

In addition to the sums here stated as received and distributed, Mr. Baillie, of Kingussie, has given a handsome private donation every year since 1836 to the poor on his estate.

(r)—75. Kirkhill:

The session clerk writes, that the poor have hitherto been liberally assisted with meal, potatoes, &c.

(s)—76. Laggan:

Some donations have also been made to the poor by gentlemen connected with the parish. The poor get small pieces of land for raising potatoes gratis, as well as supplies of meal and other necessaries from the farmers.

(t)—79. Portree:

In the new statistical account, the minister states, that "the number of poor has been on the increase annually for some years past. They are supported not so much from parochial funds or contributions, as they are by the charity and benevolence of their neighbours. The poorest of the people go about in the parish, and they are fed, and, in some instances, clad, by the liberality of the inhabitants. It is only the most dire necessity that could ever induce the people to submit to the degradation of public begging; and nothing is so repugnant to their minds as to have their names inserted in the poor-list of the parish."

* 11.—REMARKS

(a)—80. ROTHIEMURCHUS (Parliamentary):

This is a Parliamentary church, with a quoad sacra parish, formed out of the original parish of Duthill, which is in the county of Elgin.

Col. 10, years 1836 to 1839.—From 20 to 30 needy persons received supplies of meal.

(b)—81. SLEAT:

Col. 6.—The collections at the church-door had so much fallen off, from the poverty of the people, that the Kirk Session came to the resolution, before 1836, to give up making any. The average amount collected each Sabbath was little more than 6*d.*

Col. 8.—Before 1836 the number of the impotent poor was between 60 and 70.

The minister writes, that "the population of the parish is agricultural, and depend for their support on the produce of the soil. When the Kirk Session found that no funds could be collected, they threw the support of the poor on the inhabitants generally. The poor are located on the different farms in the parish, and it must be acknowledged that their wants are considered by the rent-payers according to their ability. They are supplied with meal and potatoes, and care is taken that the common fuel (peats) is provided. When a case of sickness or extraordinary destitution occurs, a specific collection is made to meet it. Notwithstanding the wishes of the people to supply the poor, it must be confessed that their wants are very inadequately provided for; their dwelling-houses are bad; their food consists chiefly of potatoes, and they are miserably off for bed-clothes. To place them in a right position, some permanent and certain provision is necessary, as the voluntary plan for their support has failed."

"If a compulsory measure is resorted to, the ties of kindred, which are now acknowledged with such advantage, will be completely severed, and a cold, heartless selfishness will come in its place. At the same time some measure is necessary for placing the poor on a proper footing, both for food and clothing."

(c)—82. SMALL ISLES:

Col. 8.—As there were no funds or the poor, no roll or list of them was made up.

Cols. 9 & 10.—During the destitution in the Highlands, a few bolls of meal were received from the general fund for the Highlands, and divided amongst the people.

The minister writes, that "the poor among us give to the poorer, and the two or three individuals who are able to give more than others, give liberally." "Perhaps you may think that the Kirk Session neglect their duty to the poor, but there is no Kirk Session here; and though ever since I became minister of this parish (three years since), I have been applying to the presbytery for one, I have not yet obtained my desire of getting a Session."

(d)—83. SNIZORT:

The minister writes, that "the poor in this parish are supported exclusively by the miserable pittance arising from church collections, by the liberality of their immediate neighbours, the charity of private individuals, and begging."

(e)—85. NORTH UIST:

Col. 7.—The proprietor gives annually about 60 bolls of meal for the poor. In 1839, 1840 and 1841, quantities of meal were given by the committee at Glasgow on the Highland Destitution Fund.

(f)—86. TRUMISGARY (Parliamentary):

Col. 8.—There was no regular poor's roll kept for these years.

Col. 9.—No regular relief was afforded to the poor in this parish during these years. Occasional supplies of meal were given to the most destitute, at the discretion of the minister; and sometimes small pecuniary aid was given to defray their funeral expenses.

During the summers of 1836, 1837 and 1838, considerable supplies of meal were sent by the Glasgow Highland Destitution Committee, to the destitute in this parish, which was distributed by a local committee.

(g)—87. SOUTH UIST:

The minister writes, that the poor are supported by the tenantry of the estate.

(h)—88. URQUHART:

In 1836 and 1837 there was a quantity of meal procured for the poor of the parish, from the managers of the fund collected for the destitute Highlanders. All the poor depend chiefly on what their more independent relations can afford to give, and on the charity of their neighbours.

(i)—89. TOMINTOUL (Parliamentary):

Tomintoul is a Parliamentary church, and quoad sacra parish, formed out of the original parish of Kirkmichael, in the county of Banff.

The minister writes, that "the p to nearly the whole population.

(p)—98. KEANLOCHLUICHART (Parliamentary):

The ordinary paupers are in general very poor. They are in a great measure dependent upon their friends, relations and neighbours, for support. Such of them as are able, would work cheerfully if they got it.

Col. 5.—This voluntary assessment is exclusively for lunatics.

Col. 7.—In addition to the sums here stated, 9 ¾ bolls of meal were also received during each of these years, and distributed amongst the poor. The minister and elders also individually assist in the distribution of about 70*l.* annually to the poor, in addition to the sums here stated.

Col. 8.—The books of the Kirk Session do not enable the minister to make the distinction between the "impotent" and "needy" poor, and the numbers here stated include both classes.

(s)—101. EDDERTON:

Col. 10, year 1839.—Thirty pounds of the sum here stated was received from the fund for distress in the Highlands, and was expended in meal for the poor.

In 1838 the parishioners collected and distributed 16 bolls of meal amongst the poor. The poor receive contributions in meal from all the families in the parish who can afford it, and collections are made for any special case of distress. These collections vary from 6*l.* to 8*l.* or so.

(t)—103. FODDERTY:

Col. 7.—The sums here stated are the conversions for 12 bolls of barley mortified for the poor on the estate of Cromarty.

(u)—104. GAIRLOCH:

The minister writes, that the poor "live single in turf hovels erected for them by their neighbours. In harvest they go from farm to farm, and get a basketful of potatoes, or some oatmeal, from each of their neighbours: they also attend the boats that have returned home from a fishing excursion, when they are sure of obtaining a supply: they also gather wool off the thorns and bushes in the fields, besides getting a few handfuls from the different families who keep sheep, which they spin on the distaff, and knit into stockings, or convert into any other necessary article of clothing."

104. Gairloch—continued.

"Their mode of living in general is but seldom far above starvation point, especially from the latter end of winter till harvest, and the consequence is, that few of them survive an attack of any serious malady, and many of them labour under severe chronic ailments. There are always a great many applicants waiting till a vacancy occurs, in order to be put on the list. One great cause of pauperism here is, that the population, consisting almost altogether of small cottars, have very small lots of land to subsist upon, which are afterwards subdivided as any member of the family marries. Also the system of emigration hitherto acted upon takes away the strong working people, leaving their old helpless relatives to qualify for the poor's roll."

(x)—105. POOLEWE (Parliamentary):

The minister informs, that the poor are supported other than by the sums here stated, by begging from door to door in the parish.

(y)—106. GLENSHIEL:

Such of the poor as have bothies go about the country begging, and the others are principally supported by their relatives or children. Mr. Matheson, of Letterfern and Ardintone, sent 10*l.* last year and this year, to be distributed among the poor on his property; but the other proprietors have not given any thing for many years back.

(z)—107. KILLEARNAN:

The minister writes, "How the poor have been supported is to me a wonder. The only ostensible mean of support they have is begging from door to door, and what the kindness of their neighbours supply; a meal a day often, and that of the poorest fare, merely a few potatoes. Were it not for the christian kindness of the middling classes, they would assuredly starve."

(a a)—108. KIRKMICHAEL and CULLICUDDEN:

The minister writes, "that whilst 5*s.* is the average annual sum which those on the poor's roll in this parish receive from the poor's funds, their other means of support throughout the year I really cannot very well describe. They live in wretched hovels, and are supported by the charity of their more immediate neighbours, and thus contrive to eke out a miserable half-starved existence. For their hovels they are charged with rent either by the landlords or by their tenants, at least most of them are." He then states, that none of the heritors contribute any thing to the poor funds, except an occasional small contribution on Sabbath.

(b b)—109. KILMUIR EASTER:

Col. 7.—In addition to the sums here stated, five bolls of barley were annually received and distributed amongst the poor.

* 11.—REMARKS AND EX

(a)—111. KINCARDINE:

Sir Charles and Lady Ross, of Balnagowan, give meal occasionally, and money for meal.

(b)—112. CROICK (Parliamentary):

The present minister was only inducted in January 1841, and he states that he has failed in many attempts to find any Session record from which to extract a correct account of the sums received and distributed annually for the poor.

(c)—113. KINTAIL:

In 1837 about 90 bolls of meal were received from the Highland Destitution Committee at Glasgow. There are 80*l.* at bank interest for behoof of the poor.

(d)—114. KNOCKBAIN:

The session clerk writes, "that the paupers, in addition to what they receive out of the poor's funds, are otherwise supported by supplies from some of the heritors and other charitable persons, as well as by begging within the parish."

(e)—115. LOCHALSH:

The minister writes, that "some of our poor are chiefly supported by their relatives; others are allowed a small bit of ground by the tenants within whose bounds they reside, in which they raise some potatoes, the land being cultivated by themselves, or some well-disposed neighbour. Three or four times in the year they go about calling on the families that are more or less able to serve them, and receive a little meal; this allowance, as far as I know, is always cheerfully given, and thankfully received. During the herring fishing season they go or send to meet the fishermen as they land, and are served. The claim, I understand, is uniformly acknowledged. As the fishings sometimes fail, this must be a precarious resource." "The huts of the poor in many instances are wretched, and their supply of fuel scanty."

(f)—117. LOCHBROOM:

The session clerk writes, that "the pittance bestowed on the poor by the Session is a mere trifle. They are supported throughout the year by the charitable contributions of their poor neighbours; but as the latter are, from year to year, more and more straitened to make room for sheep-farmers, and the ablest among them forced to leave the country, the necessity for an assessment is daily becoming more apparent."

(g)—118. ULLAPOOL (Parliamentary):

The minister writes, that, "on account of the distress which prevails every year, he is upwards of 10*l.* annually out of his own small income to the needy."

(h)—119. LOCHCARRON:

The minister writes, "that the support of the poor of this parish principally depends on the charity of their neighbours, many of whom can but ill afford much aid. The principal assistance they can give them is by planting a few potatoes for them, and giving a few herrings when they are plentiful."

(i)—120. LOCHS:

In 1837 and 1841 the poor were liberally supplied with meal.

(k)—121. LOGIE EASTER:

During the years 1836, 1837 and 1838 the parish ceeds, together with the allowances for the communion e

(p)—128. TARBAT:

The present minister informs, that, "previous to his settlement, in 1839, there were, in consequence of his predecessor's protracted illness, no accounts kept of either the collections or distributions in behalf of the poor from the year 1830."

(q)—129. UIGG:

The heritors give an annual grant of 20*l.* for educating the children of poor families in the parish. The poor are mainly supported by, and live in, the families of their friends.

(r)—132. ASSYNT:

The minister writes, that "the amount of pecuniary aid afforded the poor is astonishingly small. The truth is, almost our whole population is poor, and it is extremely difficult to select the poorest. Of course, the miserable annual pittance granted does little or nothing towards their support; consequently they are a burthen on their poor relatives and neighbours, rendering them nearly as needy as themselves. We have no wealthy people residing amongst us. The sole heritor, the Duke of Sutherland, does a good deal towards alleviating distress, by remitting arrears and rents."

(s)—133. STOER (Parliamentary):

The late Duchess of Sutherland gave an allowance of meal to the poor in each of the years 1836, 1837, 1838 and 1839; and in 1840 a donation of 15*l.* was made by the Duke of Sutherland.

(t)—134. CLYNE:

The poor are not distinguished into "impotent" and "needy." The Duke of Sutherland, sole heritor, gives a donation of 6*l.* annually, besides meal occasionally. His Grace also furnishes clothing and other necessaries.

(u)—136. DORNOCH:

Col. 7.—Thirty-four pounds of the sum here stated is interest of 800*l.* belonging to the poor; the other 6*l.* is a gratuity by the Duke of Sutherland.

On the Skibo estate the poor are liberally supplied with food and clothing by Mr. Dempster, and have also medical attendance gratis when necessary.

(x)—137. DURNESS:

In 1838 the late Duchess Countess of Sutherland gave 30 bolls of meal amongst 40 families, and in 1840 the Duke of Sutherland gave 12*l.* extra among 30 families.

The minister remarks, that "there is no regular provision for the poor; a considerable proportion of them consists of decayed or infirm individuals, who live with their children or relatives, some of whom receive some meal or clothing from such as are able to afford it; others live in huts in the different townships or hamlets, where they are permitted to plant a few potatoes, and for which no rent is demanded."

(y)—139. KINLOCHBERVIE (Parliamentary):

In 1836 all the poor, and indeed more than seven-eighths of the whole population, of the parish, were richly supplied with bread by the proprietor, from the month of March until the new crop in August.

(z)—142. GOLSPIE:

The Duke of Sutherland gives to the poor an annual donation of 6*l.* (included in column 7), and a great many private alms in the shape of money, meal, houses, clothing, &c.

* 11.—REMARKS

(a)—143. KILDONAN:

Col. 7.—Besides an annual donation of 4*l.* from the Duke of Sutherland, sole heritor, included in this column, his Grace occasionally distributes meal and clothes amongst the poor.

(b)—144. LAIRG:

The minister writes, that "many of the poor manage to get a few potatoes planted; they get a little meal now and then from the small tenants, and a number of them go among the shepherds (of whom there are many in this parish), and collect a little wool for clothing. But it must be allowed, after all, that the poor are compelled to live on a very scanty allowance for a part of the year."

(c)—146. ROGART:

Donations of meal and clothing have frequently been made to the poor in years of more than ordinary distress.

(d)—148. BOWER:

Col. 6.—The collections here stated, include the interest of 100*l.* left by the late Reverend Doctor Oswald for the poor.

(g)—158. WICK:

Col. 5, year 1841.—This assessment was chiefly for paying off some debts.

Col. 6.—The collections here stated are made at the original church of Wick (about 70 l.); at the Parliamentary church of Keiss (about 8 l.); and the mission-house at Bruan, since 1829 (about 8 l.)

Col. 7.—The sums here stated are interest of mortifications.

The minister remarks, that "this return by no means gives a correct account of the relief afforded to the poor in this parish. It necessarily keeps out of view private, or what may be called interpersonal, charity, of which there is in this parish a very great deal, amounting annually to more than the Sessional funds. The working and poorer classes are exceedingly kind to each other; nor are their wants unsympathised with by the wealthier classes, who generally respond very cheerfully to the calls on their benevolence. There are also numerous subscriptions to purchase coals, meal, clothing, &c. for the poor. A legal assessment would speedily stop these charities, and render the poor more numerous and necessitous, whilst it would destroy the kindness and the gratitude which are under the present system interchanged between the giver, who now gives not by compulsion, but of his own free will, and the receiver, who receives the gift not as a matter of right which he could compel, but as an act of kindness and generosity."

—No. 2.—

RETURN of the POPULATION and MANAGEMENT of the POOR in each PARISH of the several COUNTIES of Scotland, excepting Argyll, Inverness, Ross & Cromarty, Sutherland, and Caithness.

INTRODUCTORY EXPLANATIONS.

ON the 1st of July 1842, the Under Secretary of State addressed to Sir WILLIAM RAE, then Lord Advocate, the following letter:—

"My Lord, Whitehall, July 1, 1842.

"The Queen having been pleased to comply with the prayer of an humble Address presented to Her Majesty in pursuance of a resolution of The House of Commons, dated 30th June 1842, for a 'Return of the number of the Population at last census in each parish of the several counties of Scotland, excepting the counties of Argyll, Inverness, Ross, Sutherland, and Caithness: Return for each year, from 1836 to 1841, both inclusive, stating in each of the aforesaid parishes, 1st. Whether there is a legal or a voluntary assessment of heritors for the relief of the poor: 2d. The annual amount of such assessment: 3d. The annual amount of collections made at the kirk door: 4th. The annual amount of funds from any other sources which may have passed through the hands of the Kirk Session for the purposes of relief to the poor: 5th. The number of impotent persons on the books of the Kirk Session legally entitled to relief: 6th. The annual amount of relief which has been divided by the Kirk Session among such persons: 7th. The annual amount of relief distributed by the Kirk Session among needy persons other than the impotent;'

"I am directed, by Secretary Sir James Graham, to desire that your Lordship will cause the said Returns to be prepared, and transmit the same to me with the least possible delay, in order that they may be laid before The House of Commons.

"I have the honour to be, &c.

(signed) "H. Manners Sutton."

On the 5th of July the Lord Advocate transmitted a copy of this Letter to Mr. Warren Hastings Sands, Writer to the Signet, for the purpose of his procuring the Returns therein required.

On the 8th of the same month, a circular, which had previously been approved of by Crown Counsel, was addrsssed by Mr. Sands to the ministers of the different parishes comprehended in the counties of Scotland, other than the five counties excepted in the Letter from the Secretary of State. The number of circulars so issued was upwards of 1,000. The circular stated the particulars of the information required as to each parish, and enclosed a printed Schedule, containing, in a tabular form, the various heads of inquiry, to be filled up and returned.

The Schedules of about 550 parishes were returned by the ministers or session clerks within the four following months; and in November, when upwards of 400 of the Schedules were still outstanding, the present Lord Advocate directed that a second circular should be addressed to the clergymen, which was accordingly done on the 14th of that month, reminding them that the Schedule enclosed in the first circular had not yet been returned completed, and asking them to be so good as return it as soon as possible.

In consequence of this circular, about 300 of the outstanding Schedules were returned filled up in the course of the following six weeks. But it was not until other circulars were subsequently despatched, together with much pressing and explanatory correspondence on the subject, that the whole Schedules have been got back properly filled up and completed, and answers from those parishes to which it was found that the inquiries did not apply.

It is but justice to the clergymen and session clerks of the various parishes here to state, that they have taken the trouble (in some cases very considerable) of filling up the Schedules, and corresponding in reference to them, without any remuneration.

In reference to the construction of the Return, it is deemed necessary to make the following explanations:—

The counties are arranged according to alphabetical order, and each county, embracing and distinguishing all the parishes within it, also arranged in alphabetical order, has been kept separate and distinct by itself. The total sums of assessments, collections and distributions, &c. for the poor in the parishes of each county have been summed up, and carried to a general abstract at the end of the Return.

Each folio of the Return, it will be seen, is subdivided into eleven different Columns, and to these it may be right to advert in their order:—

Column 1 contains the NUMBERS of the PARISHES.

Column 2 contains the NAMES of the PARISHES in each County, in alphabetical arrangement:

In the case of cities, in which the management of the poor is generally consolidated into one establishment both for the city itself and all the parishes into which it may be divided, the name of the city is given in this Column, with a list of the various parishes included in it, stated in Column 11. In the case also of those quoad sacra parishes in which the Kirk Session have the management of the poor, they have been included in the Return.

Column 3 contains the NUMBER of the POPULATION at Census 1841:

This has been furnished chiefly by the minister or session clerk of each parish. In some cases they differ from the official Population Returns; but the ministers have stated some instances in which these are incorrect, and it has been deemed best to adopt the number as furnished in the Schedule applicable to this Return.

Column 4 contains the Amount of the LEGAL ASSESSMENT of HERITORS for the RELIEF of the POOR for each year, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

In the great majority of counties, a legal assessment is either altogether, or nearly altogether, unknown; and in only two or three counties is it wholly in operation. Where there is a legal assessment, it is not upon the heritors exclusively; but it is imposed, according to the proclamation of the Privy Council of Scotland, dated 11th August 1692, the one-half upon the heritors, according to the real or valued rent of their property, as may be fixed upon, and the other half upon the householders or inhabitants of the parish, according to their means and substance.

The power of imposing and levying legal assessments in burghs is vested in the magistrates, and in landward parishes in the heritors and Kirk Session.

Column 5 contains the Amount of VOLUNTARY ASSESSMENT of HERITORS for the RELIEF of the POOR, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

Voluntary assessments, it will be seen, are in more general operation than legal assessments. To constitute the voluntary assessment, the heritors, sometimes solely by themselves, and sometimes in conjunction with others of the inhabitants, and the Kirk

Kirk Session of a parish, voluntarily agree to raise a certain sum for the support of the poor. This plan has been frequently resorted to where the sum required is not very considerable; and as the amount is usually divided with the other funds at the disposal of the Kirk Session, there is little or no additional expense attending the management of it. But when the whole heritors refuse to contribute equally, recourse is then had to a legal assessment, which, it is now apparent, is gradually becoming more common throughout Scotland.

Column 6 contains COLLECTIONS made at the KIRK DOOR for each year, from 1836 to 1841, both inclusive:

It will be seen that in the greater number of parishes the chief fund for the support of the poor is derived from the collections made at the kirk door. By the proclamation of the Privy Council, 29th August 1693, in reference to legal assessments, one-half only of the sums collected at the parish churches is ordained to be paid by the Kirk Session into the general fund for the support of the poor. Out of the other half of the collections, the Kirk Session grant temporary relief to the occasional poor, and pay a number of small annual salaries to the following officers:—Presbytery Clerk, about 1*l.* 1*s.*; Synod Clerk, about 7*s.* 6*d.*; Session Clerk, who generally keeps the accounts, about 1*l.* 1*s.*; Precentor, about 2*l.* 2*s.*; Beadle, about 2*l.* 2*s.*, or generally averaging about 8*l.* in all. In addition to the collections for the poor, there are in most of the parishes annual collections for the schemes for promoting Christianity carried on by the church, as well as for other religious and charitable purposes.

When a legal assessment is adopted in a parish, it usually decreases the amount of collections for the poor at the kirk door.

Column 7 contains Amount of FUNDS from any other source which passed through the hands of the KIRK SESSION for Relief to the POOR, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

It will be seen from the Return that there are very considerable sums included in this Column: they consist of the interest of money and rent of lands mortified, of donations, legacies, dues on proclamations of marriages, hearses and mortcloths used at funerals, and other small sums. In several parishes and towns benevolent individuals mortified certain sums of money from time to time, and from the increase of the subjects in which the money has sometimes been invested, the value of the mortifications has increased very materially. They frequently supersede any assessments for the poor in the parishes to which they belong, although in some cases it is expressly declared by their founders, and in other cases seems to be implied, that the poor should receive the amount arising annually from such sources, in addition to, and exclusive of, what they would be legally entitled to.

Column 8 contains the Number of IMPOTENT PERSONS on the BOOKS of the KIRK SESSION legally entitled to RELIEF, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

The term "Impotent" is not used to denominate either of the two classes into which the poor of Scotland is generally divided, and very different meanings were attached to this expression by the ministers and session clerks, and which led to a great deal of explanatory correspondence with them on the subject. The two great classes of paupers in Scotland are, first, the ordinary or permanent poor, that is, those who are continuously and regularly on the roll of paupers as legally entitled to and receiving constant parochial relief. This includes generally all poor persons who have acquired a settlement by three years' industrial residence in the parish, and "who, by reason of the infirmity of age or immaturity of years, by reason of physical imbecility or disease, are incapable of earning subsistence by labour. Thus are entitled to relief, 1. Poor persons of 70 years or upwards, or under that age, if so infirm as to be unable to gain a livelihood by their work. 2. Orphans and destitute children under 14 years of age, and those illegitimate as well as lawful." "3. All who, from permanent bodily disease and debility, are unable to work, are proper objects of parochial relief, as 'cruiked folk, seik folk, and weak folk.' It is not necessary to entitle such persons to relief that they should be totally incapable of performing any work whatever; it is sufficient that they be unable to work so as to gain a livelihood, and that they 'must of necessity be sustained by almes.'" (Dunlop's Parochial Law, third edition, pp. 357-8). The second class consists of the occasional or temporary poor, that is, those who require occasional parochial support, or who may be verging to the permanently poor. This Column includes the first class only. Generally speaking, the poor in landward parishes, included in this Column, at least such of them as are not entirely impotent, are not wholly dependent upon the sum which they receive from the parish. By their own exertions, including a not unfrequent practice of begging from door to door, and the kindness of their relatives, with some of whom they are commonly resident, as well as the charity of their richer neighbours, they are enabled to add to their scanty subsistence. It requires also to be kept in view, that the numbers included in this Column as "on the Books of the Kirk Session," frequently show merely the heads of families; while the sum which thus appears as paid to one pauper, may, in the case of a married man with a family, in reality have to be participated in by his wife and children, whose names do not appear on the books at all.

Column 9 contains Amount of RELIEF divided by the KIRK SESSION among the IMPOTENT, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

The payments included in this Column have been explained in the remarks on the last Column.

Column 10 contains Amount of RELIEF distributed by the KIRK SESSION among NEEDY PERSONS other than the IMPOTENT, from 1836 to 1841 inclusive:

In this Column the sums paid to the occasional and temporary poor have been included.

In reference to the sums included in Columns 9 & 10, in so far as managed by the Kirk Session exclusively, it is right to notice, that the ministers and elders, and especially a kirk treasurer chosen from among the latter, take a great deal of gratuitous trouble in managing the funds, and otherwise superintending the poor themselves.

Column 11 contains REMARKS and EXPLANATIONS in reference to many of the PARISHES:

When the Schedules were returned, they were frequently accompanied with remarks and explanations. So far as necessary, these have been introduced into this Column, and it is thought they will prove of use in illustrating the statistics of the Return itself.

Again, where it appeared from a Schedule that the sums entered in it as paid to the poor were manifestly insufficient for their support, a special inquiry was made of the minister as to how the poor were otherwise supported than as appeared from the Schedule. The answers which were received, so far as necessary, have also been introduced into this Column.

In several instances the ministers have expressed much diversity of opinion as to the operation of the Poor Law. Some of them are for a continuance of the present system, while others denounce it very strongly. Extracts from several of the letters on each side have also been introduced into this Column.

* 11.—REMARKS AN

(a)—1. ABERDEEN, or ST. NICHOLAS:

Col. 2.—The parish of Saint Nicholas, which originally included the whole city of Aberdeen, was, by decreet of the Court of Teinds, dated 5th March 1828, divided into six parishes quoad civilia. Since then other six parishes have been allocated quoad sacra by the Church Courts, so that the original parish is now divided into 12; viz. East, West, North, South, Grey Friars, St. Clement's, Trinity, Union, Spring-garden, John Knox, Melville, and Mariners. The whole city is, however, still considered as one parish as to the management of the poor. The four last parishes do not give collections to the Legal Poor's Funds.

Cols. 5, 6 & 7.—The management of the Legal Poor's Funds is not vested in the Kirk Session, but they are collected and distributed by the treasurer of "The Poor's United Fund," under the management of the Magistrates, Kirk Session and others.

Col. 8—Contains the interest of money mortified for particular purposes, and the collections on the sacramental occasions, none of which are appropriated to the relief of the legal poor, but are distributed by the ministers and elders half-yearly to needy persons, who are not upon the Legal Poor's Roll.

(b)—2. OLD MACHAR, or OLD ABERDEEN:

Col. 10.—In the Schedule filled up by the Kirk Treasurer of this parish, it is stated that the number of needy persons getting temporary supplies for these six years were 443, 255, 194, 261, 274, & 276 respectively.

(c)—5. ALFORD:

Col. 10, year 1838.—Fifty pounds of former savings distributed by Session and heritors, owing to greatly deficient crop this year, and high price of meal.

The minister states, that the paupers have all rent-free cottages and small gardens on the several estates. The principal proprietor distributes 5 l. 5 s. yearly, in addition to the sums here stated, to the poor on his estate, according to a list furnished him by the Session. The other resident proprietors equally attend to the poor on their estates. A case of utter destitution, and entire dependence on the Session Funds, is of rare occurrence. Providing for the poor by collections keeps alive a continued desire to relieve their wants amongst all the inhabitants of the parish, especially amongst their own family relations.

(d)—7. AUCHTERLESS:

Col. 9—Includes sums paid for pauper lunatics; two in 1836, 1837 and 1838, and three in 1841.

(e)—8. BELHELVIE:

Col. 9.—The sums stated in this column include the expense of a lunatic; about 20 l. per annum. This reduces the sum to the ordinary poor.

Col. 10.—The sums stated in this column include about 5 l. collected annually for the infirmary at Aberdeen.

(f)—9. BIRSE:

Col. 9, year 1841.—The sum of 100 l. 10 s., here stated, includes 15 l. as the board of a pauper lunatic.

(g)—10. BOURTIE:

The minister, in returning the Schedule filled up, being gone into for changing the scheme by which voluntary contributions, until at least the supporters possession of information in favour of the present 12th July 1842.

(h)—14. CLUNY:

Col. 5, years 1837 & 1840.—The sums of 18 l. and 4 l. The session clerk, precentor and officer, receive of

(i)—17. CRUDEN:

Col. 7, years 1836 & 1837.—The sums here stated include legacies bequeathed for the poor.

(m)—20. NEW DEER:

Col. 10.—The sums here stated were paid to the occasional poor, and for expenses connected with the church not defrayed by the heritors. There is a sum belonging to the Session at present of 625*l.*, and when the outlay exceeds the income of any year the balance is taken from that source.

(n)—22. DRUMBLADE:

Col 9.—The ordinary allowance to paupers on the roll is from 12*s.* to 20*s.* per quarter, additional sums being allowed to purchase fuel or other articles much needed. One of the paupers being lunatic requires 20*l.* for yearly maintenance, &c. in an asylum.

(o)—23. DRUMOAK:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, 12 bolls of meal are annually distributed among decayed tenants, and 12 bolls among the poor scholars in the land of Drum, at the right of the Kirk Session.

(p)—26. ELLON:

Col. 5, year 1837.—The sum here stated was contributed by some of the heritors.

(q)—28. FORGUE:

Col. 5, year 1839.—A voluntary subscription of 98*l.* 8*s.* was raised this year, one-third of which was given to the poor on the roll, and two-thirds to poor families.

Col. 7, years 1840 & 1841.—A legacy of 50*l.* and 400*l.* was received in these years.

(r)—31. FYVIE:

Col. 10, years 1837 & 1839.—The sums stated for these years were extra distributions to poor householders; twelve and nine and a half bolls of meal were also distributed amongst them for these two years respectively.

(s)—32. GARIOCH:

This includes the missionary part of the parish, called Blairdaff.

(t)—34. GLASS:

In consequence of the failure of the crops of 1838, the heritors gave seed oats to the value of 21*l.* to the poorer householders.

(u)—35. GLENBUCKET:

The Earl of Fife, sole heritor, gives 10 bolls of meal to be distributed amongst the most necessitous annually.

Col. 5.—The sums here stated were donations from heritors.

Col. 8.—The minister explains, "that in the case of fatherless children, it is only the mother's name that is entered in our books, so that the number of individuals dependent on the parochial funds for relief, if each child is to be reckoned, is probably six or eight more than here set down."

(c)—40. KEIG:

Col. 10.—The number of needy persons averaged about three for these years.

The following note is appended to the Schedule: "In any new Bill which may be introduced by the Government on the subject of the Poor Laws, the Church Session of Keig is of opinion that paupers should not be thrown on the parish where they were born for support, unless where a legal residence cannot be proved elsewhere, as, in that case, the country parishes would have to support not only their own poor, but a great proportion of the poor of towns."

(d)—42. KEMNAY:

Most of the paupers have a small garden for the production of vegetables; and all of them, who are not disabled by disease, earn a trifle by their own labour. Many of them, however, are strangers to the comforts of a warm, dry house, the hovels in which they reside being of the most miserable description.

Col. 6.—The sums here stated include the collections (about 3*l.* per annum) at the quoad sacra church of Newbyth.

(k)—59. MIDMAR:

The poor also receive much private charity in the way of food, &c. from neighbours.

(l)—60. MONTQUHITTER:

The poor have relatives, friends or neighbours, who are constantly affording them assistance and doing them acts of kindness: but for this, double or perhaps three times the amount would be required from the Kirk Session.

(m)—61. MONYMUSK:

Col. 6.—The sums here stated include extra collections for a lunatic.
Col. 7.—The sums here stated arise from interest of money, donations by the heritor and others, small legacies, &c.
Col. 8.—The pauper here stated is a lunatic.
Col. 9.—This sum is the yearly board for him.
Col. 10.—The sums here stated include 8*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* for salaries to session clerk, precentor, and kirk officer, annually.

(n)—65. PETERHEAD:

Col. 8.—Many of the poor here stated have children, and the whole may average about 360 individuals.

(o)—69. RAYNE:

Almost all the poor on the Roll, except a few who are blind or bed-rid, are able to earn some part of their subsistence by knitting stockings or otherwise, but there are several aged persons, and some orphans, and fatherless and illegitimate children, who are entirely dependent on the Poor's Funds. The poor generally have also a free house, garden and fuel granted to them by the heritors. Many of the heritors give meal, potatoes and clothing to the poor on their estates during winter, while the tenants and householders are equally remarkable for the extent of their daily alms in meat, drink and provisions to the parochial poor.

(p)—76. TARVES:

The minister writes, that the poor are occasionally supplied with meal, fire and clothing by the Earl of Aberdeen, on whose estates they live. The large farmers also do much for the poor in this parish.

*11.—REMARKS AND E

(a)—77. TOUGH:

Cols. 6 & 7.—The salaries of the session clerk, precentor and beadle, have also to be paid out of the funds here stated.

(b)—78. TOWIE:

Col. 10.—The minister writes, that "the relief afforded to the needy, whose average number is about 15, is quite inadequate for any substantial object. Private benevolence makes up the deficiency. There has not been a beggar belonging to Towie, it is said, for more than half a century."

(c)—79. TULLYNESSLE:

Col. 10.—The minister writes, that "many of the needy persons would be entitled to regular aid if asked, but the feeling of independency and industrial habits are, it is believed, better kept up by giving the relief occasionally, and as it is needed."

(d)—85. AUCHENLECK:

Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, Sir James Boswell, the principal heritor, has given a dwelling-house free, and a peck of meal weekly, to each of four paupers. The Marquis of Bute, another heritor, has also distributed about five or six bolls of meal amongst the poor annually.

(e)—88. BARR:

Cols. 5, 6 & 7.—Besides the support of the poor, several charges connected with the church are also paid from the sums here stated.

Col. 8.—The number of persons represented by the name of each of the impotent persons on the books, as here stated, were 20, 21, 20, 24, 24 and 32, for each of these years respectively.

(i)—100. DUNDONALD:

Col. 6.—The sums here stated include 7 l. collected annually at Troon, a quoad sacra church erected in this parish.

(k)—105. IRVINE:

The poor in this parish have, for these six and several previous years, been supported thus: Each congregation supports its own poor members from the collections at the kirk-doors, &c.; and all the poor who are not connected with any of the churches are supported by the assessment, which is raised from the landward heritors and proprietors and occupants within burgh equally.

(l)—109. KILMARNOCK:

Col. 10.—The sums here stated include the expense of keeping pauper lunatics.

(n)—111. KILWINNING:

The minister explains, that "there are lands in this parish belonging to the poor, yielding about 200 l. a year. This is the reason there has been no assessment hitherto."

(n)—114. LARGS:

Col. 6.—Includes 10 l. of collections at the church of Fairlie (quoad sacra in Largs).

Col. 8.—Includes orphans and idiots. Two or three of the persons here stated are widows, having a few children or infants, who are not included.

Col. 10.—When cases of "needy" persons occur, they are assisted by subscriptions, which do not pass through the hands of the Kirk Session.

(a)—119. MUIRKIRK:

The collections at the kirk door form a part of the "means and substance," half of the legal assessment. During these six years, about 40*l.* per annum have been paid to the poor, chiefly those on the books, for house-rent, in addition to the sums here stated.

Col. 8.—The numbers here stated only represent the head member of a family.

(b)—124. SORN:

About 6*l.* to 8*l.* are paid yearly from the church collections at Sorn for presbytery clerk, session clerk, and other church officers' fees.

(c)—127. STEWARTON:

Col. 10, years 1839, 1840 and 1841.—The number of occasional poor for these years was 29, 25 and 22 respectively.

Since 1839, the heritors have managed the distribution of the assessment, and one-half of the collections, the other half being managed by the Kirk Session, subject to the review of the heritors.

(d)—128. STRAITON

This includes the quoad sacra church of Patna.

(e)—131. ABERLOUR:

Col. 7.—The sums here stated include the conversion into money of 30 stones of meal.

Col. 9.—The sums here stated include ditto, ditto.

(f)—132. ALVAH:

Col. 5.—The sums here stated were voluntary donations by the heritors.

(g)—134. BOHARM:

Cols. 6 & 7.—In addition to the sums here stated, from 25*l.* to 50*l.* have annually been intrusted by the heritors and others for private distribution, in which both the impotent and ordinary poor on the Roll have participated, as well as persons verging to poverty not on the Roll.

AND EXPLANATIONS.

sion clerk, that those only have been counted impotent who, being disabled by e being without relations to assist in their support, have been chargeable on the allowances are not their sole support, as they also receive meal, fuel, &c. from aving relatives to assist them, however unable to gain an industrious livelihood, heir allowances in money from the Kirk Session Funds, the poor (on the books) lf a boll to a boll of meal from the heritor yearly. In regard to the poor not at there are from five to six poor families who receive occasionally during the of the minister or Kirk Session, liberal supplies of meal, and often blankets. verage at least 10 bolls a year."

(i)—136. BOYNDIE:

The minister writes, that some of the poor earn about 6*d.* a week by the spinning-wheel, knitting, &c., in addition to these sums.

(k)—137. CABRACH:

It is explained by the session clerk, that during these years considerable distress prevailed in the parish from the failure of the crops, which increased the number of the poor, and the amount of occasional relief in some of the years. The funds for such extra expenditure were derived from the savings of collections, &c. in former years.

(l)—139. DESKFORD:

Col. 7.—The minister writes, that, in addition to the sums here stated, the heritor gives annually to be distributed by the Kirk Session six bolls of meal, value about 4*l.* 10*s.*

Cols. 9 & 10.—Besides the private charity of the inhabitants, there are, at an average, 28 bolls of meal annually given by the heritors to, at an average, 15 indigent families or individuals.

(m)—146. INVERAVON:

Col. 5.—The sums here stated were for a lunatic.

Cols. 7 & 9, year 1839 in each.—Besides the sums here stated, 10 bolls of meal were received and distributed amongst the poor.

Col. 8, years 1839 and 1840.—The numbers stated for these years are exclusive of 73 Roman Catholics for the first, and 37 for the second of these years: their class unknown.

Cols. 9 & 10, year 1839.—In addition to the sums here stated, in consequence of failure of the crops in the upper district of the parish in 1836, 1837 and 1838, 100*l.* worth of meal and 10*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* were distributed amongst the most necessitous.

There are four places of worship in this parish, two Protestant and two Roman Catholic. This Return refers only to the former. The collections of the latter are neither within the knowledge nor control of the Kirk Session. The poor of the Roman Catholic population, which amounts to about 1,100, get a share of the Kirk Session's revenue derived from other sources, but not of the collections made in the Protestant churches. The heritors contribute largely to the maintenance of the poor by donations, and the inhabitants in general give in private to the poor both money and meal.

* 11.—REMARKS AND I

(a)—149. KIRKMICHAEL:

Col. 6.—The sums here stated include the collections at Tomintoul Parliamentary church.
Col. 7.—The sums here stated arise from the interest of 712*l.* left by natives of the parish.
Cols. 9 & 10.—Information cannot be afforded for filling up these two columns. The sums stated in columns 6 and 7 are distributed amongst the poor by the Kirk Session, according to necessities.

(b)—150. MARNOCH:

Cols. 9 & 10.—The minister explains that, from the way in which sums paid to the poor have been entered in the books, it is impossible to apportion accurately the sums between these two columns. He is confident, however, that the highest allowance to the impotent poor would not average more than 25*s.* to each.

(c)—151. MORTLACH:

In addition to the voluntary assessments for 1838, 1840 and 1841, the heritors have paid 9*l.* annually since 1838 for a pauper lunatic kept by her friends.
The minister informs, that the greater part of the poor earn something for themselves, and those who do not, receive a good deal from their charitable neighbours.

(d)—153. RATHVEN:

Cols. 9 & 10.—The minister of Buckie, a quoad sacra church and parish in Rathven, informs, that from 1837 to 1841 inclusive, he distributed amongst the poor about 8*l.* 10*s.* on an average annually in private gratuities, which he had received for that purpose.

(e)—156. ABBEY, ST. BATHANS:

Col. 6.—The collections here stated are applied towards incidental expenses connected with the church.

In addition to the sums here stated, the late Sir William Purves Hume Campbell, of Marchmont, Baronet, one of the heritors, who died in 1833, bequeathed, inter alia, to the minister of this parish an annuity of 50*l.*, to be applied by him to purchase coals and good wholesome meal for the poor.

(k)—174. HUME and STITCHELL:

In reference to the last note as to Greenlaw, Sir William also bequeathed to the minister of this parish 25*l.* for a similar purpose.

(l)—175. HUTTON:

Col. 8.—In addition to the individuals here stated, their families would amount to fully a third more.
A legacy of 50*l.* was left last year by an old lady connected with the parish, the interest of which is to be applied by the Kirk Session at Christmas, annually, in purchasing coals for the most indigent.

(m)—177. LANGTON:

The legal assessment is collected and distributed by the heritor's clerk, and the collections at the church are managed by the treasurer of the Kirk Session.

(l)—203. KILMARONOCK:

Col. 8.—All these persons could either do something for themselves or obtained some assistance from friends.
Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, there is paid annually about 4*l.* for presbytery and synod clerks and kirk officers' salaries.

(m)—204. NEW OR EAST KILPATRICK:

Col. 8.—Most of the persons here stated are able to do something for their support; in some instances one individual on the books represents a whole family.

(n)—205. OLD OR WEST KILPATRICK:

Col. 8.—These are the numbers on the books, but about a half more, for children, &c., may be reckoned as sharing in their allowance.
Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, the minister receives from different individuals about 30*l.* to purchase coals and other necessaries, for distribution amongst the poor in winter.

205. Old or West Kilpatrick—continued.

The Kirk Session of the quoad sacra church of Duntocher also distribute a fourth part, or 12*l.* 10*s.* of their collections annually amongst the poor of Duntocher in this parish.

(o)—206. KIRKINTILLOCH:

Col. 4.—The sums here stated include the collections (excepting 1841), as they cannot be separated.
Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the payments both to the impotent and needy (excepting in 1841), as they cannot be separated.
There is an annual collection at St. David's church, which is quoad sacra in this parish, to supply coals to the poor.

(p)—208. ROSENEATH:

Col. 8.—The numbers here stated include one lunatic in 1836, two in 1837, and three in the other four years.
The salaries paid to the session clerk, precentor, presbytery clerk, and church officer, from the sums received amount to about 12*l.*

* 11.—REMARKS AND EXPLA

(a)—210. ANNAN:

Col. 6.—The sums here stated include mortcloth and proclamation dues.
Col. 9.—From the sums here stated, 7*l.* 10*s.* is deducted, being the annual salaries to session clerk and church officer.

(b)—212. CANONBIE:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, there was paid for clothes, &c. for these two classes of poor, the sum of 36*l.* annually, and for medical attendance on them about 8*l.* 10*s.* annually.

(c)—213. CARLAVEROCK:

Cols. 7 & 10.—The sums here stated arise from a part of the mortification of 1,000*l.* by Dr. Hutton, in 1719, which, by a fortunate purchase of land, now yields 500*l.* per annum. The remainder of this sum is applied to educational purposes, &c.

(d)—218. DRYFESDALE:

Col. 6, year 1837.—The collections were small, in consequence of the rebuilding of the church, when they were not made in the usual way.

218. Dryfesdale—continued.

Col. 7.—The sums here stated formed an accumulated fund in bank, the interest of which was annually employed in the purchase of coals for the poor; it was directed by the heritors to be applied as needed for ordinary purposes, and when exhausted, the assessment was increased.
Col. 8.—These numbers are annually increasing, and it is likely a legal assessment will soon be resorted to.

(e)—219. DUMFRIES:

Col. 8.—In addition to these paupers, 50 persons are maintained in the poor's house, at an expense of about 400*l.* annually, chiefly derived from sums mortified to that institution, with subscriptions and donations. In addition also to this, the sum of 110*l.*, also derived from mortifications, is distributed annually to out-door pensioners of the poor's house, of which the poor in this column participate with others.

(f)—220. DUNSCORE:

Col. 6.—Excepting the year 1839, in which the heritors subscribed 30*l.*, a sum varying from 10*l.* to 35*l.* was uplifted from a sum of mortified money, of which there now remains about 350*l.*

* 11.—REMARK

(a)—254. MID-CALDER:

Cols. 5, 6 & 7.—About 25*l.* or 30*l.* of the sums here stated are paid in salaries to precentor, kirk treasurer, heritor's clerk and session clerk.

(b)—255. WEST-CALDER:

Col. 8.—In the numbers here stated, two lunatics are included in 1836, 1837, 1838 and 1841; and in 1839 and 1840, one lunatic; and these increase the expense.

(c)—256. CARRINGTON:

Col. 7.—The Earl of Roseberry gives 10*l.* annually to be distributed amongst the poorest of the people; and Mr. Ramsay, of Whitehill, occasionally gives 5*l.* for the same object.

(d)—258. COLINTON:

Col. 6, year 1837.—The church was repaired this year, and for six months worship was conducted in the school-house, which may account for the diminution of this year's collection.

(e)—259. CORSTORPHINE:

Col. 7.—These sums arise from interest of money and dues of marriages and mortcloth.

Col. 8.—Children living with their parents, and wives, are not here included.

Col. 10.—The sums here stated are the estimated value of a ton of coals and a stone of meal distributed amongst 18 families or thereby.

(f)—261. CRANSTOUN:

Col. 7.—These sums arise from interest of money and dues of hearse and mortcloth.

Col. 8.—These numbers include two pauper lunatics, the expense of whom is 28*l.* per annum, and is included in col. 9. The salaries to precentor, session clerk and kirk officer average about 9*l.* 10*s.* for these years.

(g)—264. DALKEITH:

Col. 8, year 1838.—No Return can be made of the number for this year.

Col. 9, year 1838.—Ditto - - ditto - - ditto.

Col. 10, years 1836 and 1837.—The sums here stated were for the maintenance of five pauper lunatics, not included in col. 8. No Return can be made for 1838 and 1839, the lunatics and their expense for these years being included in cols. 8 and 9.

(h)—265. DUDDINGSTON and PORTOBELLO:

Col. 4.—The assessment is for both the original parish of Duddingston and the quoad sacra parish of Portobello.

Col. 6.—The sums here stated are the collections only at Duddingston. Those at Portobello are retained for purposes connected with the church there.

Col. 7.—The sums here stated were all received by the Kirk Session of Duddingston, excepting a sum of 50*l.* included in the year 1841, received by the Kirk Session, Portobello.

In the remaining three columns, the number of poor in Duddingston and Portobello respectively, and the relief paid to the two classes in each parish, have been kept separate here, although they are both under the charge of the former.

At the church of Morningside, quoad sacra in this parish, there has been usually a collection once a year for the poor residing in it.
In the parish of Newington, quoad sacra in this parish, a benevolent society has been instituted, by which much is done for the poor. In supplying them with work, and in providing coals and other comforts, 100 l. was expended last year.

(m)—270. SOUTH LEITH:

Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, about 50 l. is annually divided amongst the poor members of the congregation of St. John's, a quoad sacra parish to South Leith.

(n)—274. INVERESK:

Col. 7.—Occasional legacies, varying from 1 l. to 20 l., are left to the Kirk Session, and distributed amongst the poor, but it is impossible to ascertain their annual amount.

(o)—277. LIBERTON:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, there was raised by extra collections and voluntary subscriptions the sum of 111 l. 4*s.* 6 d., which was expended during the winter of these years, according to the necessitous circumstances of families.

(p)—279. NEWTON:

Col. 9, year 1840.—This sum of 198 l. 0*s.* 4½ d. includes 63 l. paid for a pauper lunatic, confined by order of the Court of Justiciary, he having been found to have a legal claim upon this parish.

(q)—281. RATHO:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, there is about 20 l. paid for a lunatic pauper, and from 30 l. to 40 l. annually subscribed for coals to the poor.

(r)—283. TEMPLE:

During these years the annual expense of lunatics was 60 l.

* 11.—REMARKS AND EX

(a)—286. BELLIE:

Col. 10.—The sums here stated in 1839 and 1840 included allowances for a pauper lunatic; and in 1841 is included the allowance for two pauper lunatics.

(b)—287. BIRNIE:

Col. 7.—The sums here stated in 1838, 1839, 1840 and 1841, include 10*l.* paid by the Earl of Seafield, sole heritor, for the support of a bedrid and fatuous individual, independent of her share of the other funds.

(c)—288. DALLAS:

The minister informs, that the parishioners are very kind to the poor; and if the former were to withhold their supplies, many of the latter would starve.

(d)—290. DUFFUS:

Cols. 7 & 9, year 1838 in each.—The sums here stated include 11*l.* 17*s.* 4*d.* collected by voluntary subscription in the parish, and distributed in coals among the poor.

Cols. 7 & 9, year 1839 in each.—The sums here stated include 10*l.* 10*s.* as a remittance from India.

(e)—291. DUTHILL:

Col. 7, year 1837.—In addition to the sum here stated, the Kirk Session received and distributed 45 bolls of meal.

Cols. 9 & 10.—In 1838, the Kirk Session distributed 20*l.* worth of meal, and in 1839, 18*l.* worth, to both classes of paupers.

The minister writes, that those of the paupers who are able, beg from their neighbours.

(f)—292. DYKE and MOY:

The minister explains, that a number of the poorest on the list are pensioners on the bounty of their respective heritors, some of them receiving from this source a peck of meal weekly, and others from 2*s.* to 3*s.* monthly. Were it not for this, the allowance made to the impotent poor would require, in some cases, to be doubled and tripled. In 1838 and 1839 extraordinary contributions were made by heritors, farmers and others, amounting to about 80*l.*, which was distributed amongst the labouring and ordinary poor in money, meal and potatoes, in about equal proportions to the two classes.

(g)—293. EDINKILLIE:

Cols. 5 & 10.—The sum of 15*l.*, included in these two columns, was for a pauper lunatic.

(h)—294. ELGIN:

Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the relief given to both classes of paupers; but no materials exist to show what was paid to each class. Nearly 100*l.* is now required for the support of pauper lunatics alone, and for whom the assessment in 1841 was made. Much is done by private charity.

(i)—295. FORRES:

Col. 10.—These sums include the support of one pauper lunatic for the three first years, and three during the last three. About 1*l.* 8*s.* is the highest average of allowance given annually to each pauper in this parish, including the value of the coals they receive. In reference to this, the minister writes, "In fact, the poor of this parish, and of many other parishes in the north of Scotland, may be said to be starved rather than supported, and it is matter of wonder to us that they are able to support existence at all by the means within their reach." He then refers to the difficulty he and the Session experienced in obtaining even the present allowance for them, and proceeds: "I may observe, 295. Forres—continued.

"2d. About 40 of our paupers are in the habit of beggin other week-days.

"3d. In harvest, four-fifths of our poor earn a few shill summer; others knit stockings and spin a little.

"4th. Almost all the poor plant potatoes for themselves,

"5th. The more respectable portion of the community, g being few families in easy circumstances who do not take an thus: "Our poor are in circumstances of great destitution, all over the north of Scotland."

(k)—298. RAFFORD:

The minister writes, "A great proportion of those upon and such of them as are known to be in want are cared for b renders it very questionable if any assessment, which will of necessities so effectually."

(l)—301. NEW SPYNIE:

Col. 5.—This assessment was for a pauper lunatic.

LANATIONS.

gent of the women on our Roll receive from 3*d.* to 6*d.* from themselves and other friends whom they are able to the town on every Saturday, and in the country during the by field-labour; about 40 work in the fields in spring and round given by the neighbouring farmers.

lly speaking, are very kind to their poor neighbours, there rest in two or three poor creatures," &c. He concludes a more adequate provision for them is loudly called for

Roll are able to earn something for themselves in summer, ir neighbours. A great deal is done in this way, which rse dry up this source, will be found to provide for their e poor.

(m)—302. URQUHART:

The minister explains: "1st. That a very large proportion of the poor on the Roll consist of women who are able to earn a great part of their subsistence, and actually do so, by their labour in the fields in spring, summer and harvest. Their average wages for hoeing and weeding is 8*d.* per day, and for cutting, in harvest, 3*d.* or 3½*d.* per threave. They occupy houses belonging to the heritor, rent free, or at a nominal rent. Their fuel costs them a mere trifle, as they receive lots of brushwood from the proprietor gratis. When meal is high priced, they also receive a liberal distribution from the heritor.

"2d. The aged and helpless paupers get from 4*l.* to 5*l.* from the parochial funds. Their families, kindred and neighbours are very attentive, and contribute to their support according to their means. They have certainly few comforts, but they do not feel want. Insane and fatuous paupers are kept in an asylum at the expense of the proprietor."

(n)—303. ABBOTSHALL:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, there was about 72*l.* on an average paid for pauper lunatics from 1837 to 1841.

(o)—304. ABDIE:

Col. 8.—Includes three lunatic paupers.

(p)—305. ABERCROMBY:

Col. 9.—Includes about 20*l.* paid annually for a pauper lunatic in asylum.

(q)—306. ABERDOUR:

Col. 9, years 1838 to 1841.—The sums here stated include 9*l.* 2*s.* for a pauper lunatic.

(r)—307. ANSTRUTHER EASTER:

Col. 8.—The exact numbers prior to 1841 cannot now be ascertained, and they are merely presumed to have been as here stated. The number in 1841 includes a pauper lunatic.

(s)—309. AUCHTERDERRAN:

Col. 8.—The exact numbers prior to 1840 cannot now be ascertained, and they are merely presumed to have been as here stated.

(t)—310. AUCHTERMUCHTY:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, the poor receive supplies from the soup-kitchen and female society to the value of about 45*l.* per annum.

(u)—311. AUCHTERTOOL:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, the poor get annually five loads of coals, and four of them have a house and small garden, rent free.

(x)—313. BALMERINO:

Col. 7.—The sum of 10*l.* here stated, and included in col. 10, was paid by Mr. Stuart, of Balmerino, in addition to his share of the assessment, and distributed in coals and other seasonable relief to the necessitous poor in winter.

(y)—314. BEATH:

Col. 8.—There is only one of the numbers here stated so impotent as to be able to do nothing, and she is partly supported by her relatives. The others are able to do more or less for their own support.

* 11.—REMARKS

(a)—318. CARNOCK:

Col. 10, years 1839 and 1840.—The sums here stated for these years include 13*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* and 6*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* paid for a pauper lunatic.

(b)—319. CERES:

The sums here stated include expense of lunatic paupers during these years, as follows: 1836, 43*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.*; 1837, 69*l.*; 1838, 72*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*; 1839, 63*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*; 1840, 54*l.* 11*s.* 11*d.*; and 1841, 57*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*
The Return as to this parish cannot be completed for the years which are blank here.

(c)—320. COLLESSIE:

Col. 10.—A considerable part of the sums here stated is paid for keeping an insane person in Dundee Lunatic Asylum.

(d)—322. CREICH:

Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the following payments for a lunatic: 1836, 8*l.* 12*s.*; 1837 and 1838, 5*l.* each year.

(e)—324. CUPAR:

Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the sums paid both to the impotent and needy, as they both receive regular aliment from the Kirk Session.

(f)—329. DUNFERMLINE:

Cols. 4 & 5.—For the three first of these years, the Poor's Funds were managed partly by the Kirk Session and partly by a Voluntary Association, composed of Churchmen and Dissenters. The sums in these two columns include subscriptions by the inhabitants.

Col. 6.—For the three first of these years the collections at seven dissenting churches are included, amounting on an average to 47*l.*, and of a quoad sacra church, averaging 3*l.* 17*s.* per annum.

Col. 7.—These sums were furnished partly by the Kirk Session and partly by the Voluntary Association.

Cols. 8, 9 & 10.—The fatuous poor, about 10 in number, residing in the parish, and the lunatic poor in asylums, about six, are included. For the three first of these years, the six lunatic poor in asylums cost on an average 101*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, and for the last three years, from six to eight cost 146*l.* 8*s.* 9¾*d.* per annum, which sums are included in col. 9. The sums in col. 10 include extra relief distributed by the established and seven dissenting churches to the stated and occasional poor of their own congregations. The sums given by the Dissenters are taken from their general funds, averaging about 35*l.* The Voluntary Association also distributed relief to needy persons approaching to pauperism; but the number of such persons, and the amount received by them, cannot now be easily stated. Their names were put upon the Roll for temporary relief, but in most cases they merged into the ordinary Roll.

*11.—REMARKS AND EXP

(a)—357. ST. ANDREW'S:
Col. 8.—About one-fourth part of the permanent poor here stated are actually impotent, the greater part of the others being able to earn a little towards their maintenance, though not independent of aid from the Kirk Session. Almost all the paupers have also some relief from other sources, and there is much private charity in this city and parish.

(b)—358. ST. LEONARD'S, ST. ANDREW'S:
Col. 9, years 1836, 1837 and 1838.—The exact amount cannot be ascertained for these years; and the sums here stated are presumed as about the actual payments.

(c)—360. SCOONIE:
Col. 10.—The sums here stated include board, &c., for two lunatic paupers in asylum.

(d)—361. STRATHMIGLO:
Col. 5, years 1837 and 1838.—The assessment stated for these years were for other parochial purposes, as well as for the poor, such as repair of manse, kirk, &c.
Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the expenses of three or four lunatic and blind paupers, about 40*l.* annually.

(e)—362. TORRYBURN:
Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, the sum of 95*l.* 4*s.* 5¼*d.* was paid for the support of two pauper lunatics in the asylum at Dundee, during the years 1838, 1839 and 1841.

(f)—368. AUCHTERHOUSE:
Col. 10.—The sums here stated are paid for a pauper lunatic.

(g)—372. CARMYLLIE:

(k)—382. FEARN:

Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, the sum of 18*l.* was paid, in each of the years 1837 and 1838, for a pauper lunatic.

(l)—388. INVERKEILLOR:

Cols. 7, 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums stated in these columns, there are mortifications under the management of the Kirk Session, yielding about 40*l.* yearly, of which about 20*l.* is disbursed for the education of poor children, and 20*l.* for clothing poor families, who are not entitled to parochial aid in times of temporary distress. For the last three years, the Session have also received from one of the heritors an annual donation of 5*l.*, to be similarly applied.

(m)—389. KETTINS:

Col. 7.—The sums here stated are chiefly rents of lands belonging to the poor.

Col. 8.—The numbers here stated include on an average three pauper lunatics, the expense of whom may be about 45*l.* to 50*l.* per annum.

(n)—395. LINTRATHEN:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated as distributed in 1841, the farmers in the parish distributed 16 bolls of meal amongst the poor.

(o)—397. LIFF and BENVIE:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, various small sums were expended in temporary relief to the poor, rents of their houses, and for lunatic paupers kept in asylum.

* 11.—REMARI

(a)—464. KINROSS:
Col. 8.—The number for the year 1841 has been taken from the books of the Kirk Session. The numbers for the other years are supposed to have been as here stated; no record of them having been preserved.

(b)—465. ORWELL:
Col. 10.—About 16 needy persons get supplies of coals, and nothing else; for the last three years the heritors and tenants have driven the greater part of the coals, about 46 cart-loads annually, gratis. A few other needy persons get a little money.

(c)—466. PORTMOAK:
Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, the regular poor have free houses, and are supplied with coals gratis.

(d)—470. BORGUE:
Col. 7.—The sums here stated chiefly arise from the interest of 800*l.* mortified for the poor.

(e)—473. COLVEND and SOUTHWICK:
Col. 5.—The sums here stated are assessments for a pauper lunatic.

(f)—479. KIRKBEAN:

* 11.—REMARKS AND EXPL

(a)—497. BLANTYRE:

The sums and numbers here stated refer only to the population in the landward part of the parish, amounting to 1,500; and the poor in the remainder of the population (1,547) in the manufacturing village of Blantyre Works are supported by the proprietors and inhabitants themselves, apart from the Kirk Session.

(b)—517. BARONY (Parish), GLASGOW:

Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, there were large payments for the education of pauper children, and to the Asylum for the Blind, Deaf and Dumb Institution, Eye Infirmary, fees of admission to Fever Hospital, for coffins and graves, and surgeon's accounts for the poor. There are also law expenses, salaries and incidental expenses, which are defrayed from the assessment.

This includes the quoad sacra parishes in the Barony parish.

(c)—518. GLASGOW (City Royalty):

This includes the parishes of High or St. Mungo's, Tron or St. Mary's College or Blackfriars, Outer High or St. Paul's, St. George's, St. David's, St. Andrew's, St. Enoch's, St. John's, St. James's, comprehending the whole of the Royalty of the City of Glasgow, whether within or without the Parliamentary boundary; also the whole of the quoad sacra parishes of Albion-street, Bridgegate, Brounfield, Chalmers', St. George's-in-the-Fields, St. Peter's, St. Thomas', and a portion of the Martyrs and Well Park.

Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the expenses of management.

Col. 10.—The sums here stated are exclusive of the sums expended on the education of poor children.

(d)—521. HAMILTON:

Cols. 6 & 10.—The sums here stated include the average annua amounting to 60 l., and the disbursement of the same among Christmas, not fewer than 100 cart-loads of coal to the poor.

(e)—523. LAMINGTON and WANDELL:

About 4 l. 10 s. was distributed amongst the ordinary and the

(f)—527. NEW MONKLAND:

This includes the three quoad sacra churches of Airdrie, and

at Broomknoll and Clerkston.

(g)—528. OLD MONKLAND:

This includes the quoad sacra churches of Crosshill and Gartsherrie.

Cols. 9 & 10.—The amount in Col. 9 cannot be divided as required. In addition to the sums here stated, the Kirk Session of Crosshill quoad sacra received from the congregation, and distributed amongst the poor in money and coals, about 15 l. 10 s. annually. The congregation of Crosshill also contributed in 1840 and 1841 the sum of 7 l. to aid for the board of a deaf and dumb girl.

(h)—530. RUTHERGLEN:

The Poor's Funds are managed by the magistrates and a committee of heritors, in place of the Kirk Session.

Col. 10.—In consequence of the book, containing the account of sums paid to the occasional poor, having been mislaid, no return can be made for the years from 1838 to 1841.

(i)—535. WISTON and ROBERTON:

The Poor's Funds are managed by a committee appointed by the heritors, in place of the Kirk Session.

* 11.—REMA

(a)—536. ABERCORN:
Col. 7.—From the sums here stated, the annual salaries of church officers, amounting to 12 l. 13 s., are paid.

(b)—537. BATHGATE:
Col. 9, years 1838 and 1839.—The accounts for these two years having been lost, the sums cannot be exactly stated; they have been inserted here the same as the immediately preceding year.

(c)—539. CARRIDEN:
Col. 7.—During these years, about 10 l. was intrusted to the minister personally, and distributed by him amongst the poor.

(d)—543. LINLITHGOW:
Col. 10.—An extra collection is made once a year for the needy and unemployed labourers, which amounts to about 70 l. or 80 l., part of which is also distributed amongst the impotent.

(e)—545. QUEENSFERRY:
Col. 7.—The sums here stated arise chiefly from the interest of a legacy left by Captain Henry Meek, a native of the parish, of 6,136 l. 19 s. 9 d., Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities.
Col. 8.—This includes 28 poor in the adjoining parish of Dalmeny, and residing in the eats and west ends of Queensferry, who were found entitled to participate in Captain Meek's bequest by a decreet of the Court of Session.

(f)—546. TORPHICHEN:
Col. 9, years 1839, 1840 and 1841.—This includes the expense of maintaining a pauper lunatic in asylum.
Col. 10.—The sums here stated are the averages of relief afforded; the precise amount cannot be exactly ascertained.

(g)—549. ARDCLACH:
The minister informs, that "all of the poor get potatoes raised by the farmers, from whom they have their houses, which is their chief support; some of them are in the habit of begging in the parish; others, who are unable to beg themselves, get some of their acquaintances to collect meal, &c. for them; and, during summer and harvest, those who are able to work are employed by the farmers at 6 d. per day, without victuals, in summer, and at 1*s.* per day in harvest."

(i)—557. HOLM:

Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, the householders of the parish afforded a liberal supply of meal, milk, potatoes, fish, and other necessaries of life. The poor cannot be classed into impotent and needy.

(k)—558. KIRKWALL:

There are two mortifications in this parish: the first is a sum of 500 l. left by Baron Stewart Moncreiff, the interest of which, at four per cent., is annually distributed amongst the poor by the Town Council, under whose management it is; and the second is an estate said to be worth 7,000 l., the property of a native of the parish, who dying intestate, the Crown succeeded as ultimus hæres, and vested it in trustees for charitable purposes in this and the other parishes of Orkney.

(l)—561. STROMNESS:

The minister informs, that "begging from door to door is very common, and bedrid paupers receive a great deal of support from benevolent families. Of course it is impossible to say the quantum of support thus afforded, but it must be considerable."

(m)—562. NORTH RONALDSHAY:

The information cannot be obtained for the year 1836.

Cols. 7 & 9.—The sole heritor gives the minister a discretionary power of ordering meal at his expense to such as may require it. This has been done generally to the extent of four or five bolls annually, and is stated in each of these two Columns at 4 l. per annum.

(n)—563. ROWSAY and EGILSHAY:

There was no distribution to the poor for the year 1837.

The minister writes, that the poor "depend almost wholly for their support upon their neighbours; and perhaps in this way they are better supplied than by any assessment which the farmers could afford to pay in money."

(o)—564. SHAPINSHAY:

Col. 10, year 1838.—The sum here stated was laid out in purchasing meal, and which was distributed among 40 needy persons, or thereby.

* 11.—REMARKS AND EX

(a)—569 & 570. WESTRAY and PAPAY WESTRAY:

The sums stated in Cols. 7 & 10 are from the "Balfour Bequest," distributed annually by the Kirk Session among 38 poor on an average.

In addition to the sums here stated, the poor receive much in private charity.

(b)—571. HOY and GRÆMSAY:

Col. 7, year 1837.—In the year 1837, owing to a failure in the crops and the prevailing destitution, meal and potatoes were sent to Orkney, a portion of which was received and distributed by the minister of this parish amongst the poor on the Roll, and the other poor not on it.

The minister writes, "that the session can afford no adequate relief to those who require it;" but "the inhabitants, though generally not in affluent circumstances, are nevertheless extremely kind and attentive to the poor and needy among them; and I am fully persuaded their wants are better attended to, and themselves rendered more comfortable, than if the people were burdened with a compulsory assessment."

(c)—573. SOUTH RONALDSHAY:

The minister writes, "You may indeed wonder how the poor in my three united parishes exist. The answer would be very long were I to give a detail of all circumstances. Briefly, we are all poor (a very few excepted), and have a fellow-feeling with each other, and we give a little and a little,—thus the poor live by begging."

(d)—574. SANDSTING:

Col. 9.—The small sums here stated were employed to purchase clothes for the poor, the parishioners supplying them with food and lodging; each "poor" having a particular district of the parish allotted to them.

Col. 10.—The sums here stated are given by way of encouragement to industry, and to keep off the Poor's Funds.

(e)—575. BRESSAY:

The minister writes, "that though the yearly allowance to the poor seems small, they have not many wants, as their neighbours do what they can to supply them."

(f)—577. DELTING:

Col. 8.—Of the numbers here stated, there are 12 who are the parish, the parish being divided into 12 quarters, eac in lodgings, fire and food.

(g)—579. SANDWICK:

The minister writes, that the poor do not depend for "Their relations, when they have any, and their neighbou potatoes or fish they have, although they cannot give the the Session, I believe they are in as good condition as ma more to give them."

(h)—580. Lerwick:

The minister writes, "The wretched lives of the poor are protracted by begging while they are able to crawl from door to door; and when sickness or exhaustion confines them to their hovels, they must die of want if not looked after by some of their humane neighbours. The small pittances allowed to them from the Poor's Fund are in almost every instance handed over by them as rent to the proprietors of the holes in which they are sheltered.

"It is impossible to paint in too deep colours the wretchedness of the poor of Lerwick. The state of the law which permits it, or which does not authoritatively prevent it, is disgraceful to a civilized country, and at variance with the spirit and the precepts of the Christian Institution."

(i)—583. Tingwall:

Col. 9.—In addition to the sums here stated, there were large quantities of meal received from the south, as well as raised in the parish, for the poor. The minister says, "There is great distress in the parish, and no residing heritors to support the poor. Much of what is given is supplied by the minister himself."

(k)—585. Walls:

Col. 10.—The minister writes, that the inhabitants give part of their own provisions to the needy.

Col. 10, year 1839.—The sum here stated includes the expense of a pauper lunatic: 18*l.* 18*s.* 11½*d.* for this year.

The following is the Table of Allowances to paupers in this parish:

	£.	s.	d.
To a single pauper, 5*s.* per month, or, per annum	3	5	–
To a man and wife, 7*s.* 6*d.* per month, or, per annum	4	17	6
To a man with a bedrid, fatuous son, 10*s.* per month, or, per annum	6	10	–
To a woman living with a brother-in-law, 4*s.* or 5*s.* per month, or, per annum	4	1	–

Several of the paupers also receive a cart-load or two of coals.

* 11.—REMARKS A

(a)—592. KIRKURD:
The minister writes, "The poor of this parish are so liberally assisted by the private charities of the patron and chief heritor, Sir Thomas Gibson Carmichael, that no inferences can be drawn from this Return regarding the present parochial system of providing for the destitute."

(b)—600. TRAQUAIR:
Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, the funeral charges of paupers, and the education afforded to poor children, may amount to about 6*l.* yearly. Much charity is also bestowed by individuals privately.

(c)—603. ABERFOIL:
Col. 5.—The sums here stated were voluntary donations from the Duke of Montrose, sole heritor.

(d)—604. ABERNETHY:
Col. 7.—Of the sums here stated, about 53*l.* arise from the rent of mortified lands.

(e)—605. ABERNYTE:
Col. 8.—Besides the numbers here stated, there is a pauper lunatic kept in the Perth Asylum.
Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums here stated, the minister and others distribute meal and clothes to the poor.

(f)—607. ARNGASK:
Col. 7.—Of the sums here stated, about 62

(g)—609. AUCHTERGAVIN:
Cols. 9 & 10.—In addition to the sums her
Lunatic Asylum, on an average for each o

om the rent of mortified lands.

there has been paid for the maintenance of pauper lunatics in the Perth parishes of Blairathol, Moulin and Dull, in the end of 1836.

r in this district receive some further relief from the old parishes.

(i)—619. CLUNIE:

Col. 5.—This assessment is wholly for the maintenance of a pauper lunatic.

(k)—622. CREIFF:

Col. 9.—The sums here stated include the expense of four pauper lunatics for the first three years, and five for the last three years; average of each year, about 78 l.

A soup-kitchen is maintained in the parish, at the expense of Lady Baird Preston and her sister. Fifty poor persons, most of them on the Poor's Roll, thrice a week receive broth and bread; coals in the winter months, and a suit of clothes.

622. Creiff—continued.

This is equal to 100 l. a year, or 2 l. to each pauper on the list. Lady Willoughby has 30 stated pensioners, to whom, in coals, meal and clothing, she gives annually about 40 l.

If these charities did not exist, the assessments would be increased by a sum very nearly equal to their value.

(l)—623. COMRIE:

The heritors also assess themselves separately for the support of pauper lunatics, about 50 l. or 60 l.

(m)—626. DUMBARNEY:

The heritors also contribute separately 20 l. for the support of a pauper lunatic.

* 11.—REMARKS AND E

(a)—634. FORTINGALL:

Col. 8.—In addition to the number of poor here stated, there are others so peculiarly circumstanced as to require a fixed allowance, for which the heritors assessed themselves as in Col. 5. These may be called extraordinary poor, and they amounted to 10 each year, in this and the two Parliamentary parishes of Innerwick in Glenlyon and Rannock.

(b)—635. INNERWICK in GLENLYON:

The heritors also assess themselves for 10 l. for a pauper lunatic.

(c)—640. KENMORE:

The Marquis of Breadalbane, the heritor, gives houses to the poor rent free; he also gives distributions of meal and clothing annually; also, broth and meat from Taymouth Castle twice a week.

(d)—641. KILLIN:

Col. 7—Includes the value of meal (40 l.) given by the Marquis of Breadalbane. His Lordship also gives the poor-houses and small gardens rent free, as well as pensions to a large amount.

In 1840 and 1841 the Kirk Session of Strathfillan church quoad sacra in this parish distributed upwards of 9 l. each year to the poor.

(e)—645. NORRIESTON:

No account of the funds, &c. was kept prior to 1837.

(f)—646. KINCLAVEN:

Col. 5, year 1841.—The assessment here stated was for a lunatic.

(g)—647. KINFAUNS:

Col. 10.—This includes the following payments for pauper 16 l. 4 s.

(h)—653. LOGIERAIT:

The pauper lunatics are maintained from an assessment

(i)—658. MEIGLE:

The heritors also pay 22 l. 10 s. annually for the mainte

(k)—660. MONEYDIE:

The heritors also pay, at an average, 19 l. annually for t

ources; the Number of Impotent Persons on the Books of the Kirk Session; and the Amount of Relief granted to Impotent and Needy Persons; from 1836 to 1841—continued.

* 11.—REMARKS A

(a)—745. ST. NINIAN'S:

In the parish of Bannockburn, erected quoad sacra out of St. Ninian's, there have been special collections for the poor, averaging 14*l.* yearly, since 1839, when the parish was erected.

(b)—751. INCH:

Col. 5.—These assessments were for lunatics.

(c)—755. KIRKMAIDEN:

The minister writes, that the poor of this parish derive "a great part of their support from private charity."

(d)—759. MOCHRUM:

The minister writes, "With one or two e on the Roll, such as paying house-rent. T from the Kirk Session."
